Judge Rosch Will Decide the Case

Of William W. Van Keuren Against W. Arthur Farrar for Breach of Warranty—Case a Question of Law. Is Taken From Jury—Decision Reserved.

The action brought by William W. Van Keuren of the town of Ulster against W. Arthur Farrar of this city for breach of warranty was continued in the supreme court Thursday afternoon.

Plaintiff claims he purchased a parcel of land from defendant and that a survey showed there was not as much land in the parcel as the deed called for. The property, located on Linderman avenue in this city, was purchased by Mr. Van Keuren for $2,400 after he had been shown the land by Mr. Farrar.

The defendant claims that he took Mr. Van Keuren to the property in the winter and showed him about where the boundary was, stating that there was about 200 feet frontage and that the property went back to a row of trees at the rear. He says he told Mr. Van Keuren that he did not know the exact size of the property as the deed was in links and chains and he did not understand them as he was used to dealing with feet and inches. He testified that Mr. Van Keuren said he was familiar with land measure and asked for a copy of the deed.

The deed was drawn up and the transaction completed. Then Mr. Van Keuren had a survey made of the land and found that the description in the deed did not tally with his property. One side of the property according to the deed runs back several more chains than to the fence where the property line is, according to witnesses. This line when run out and the rear boundary line established extends too far back from the front and when the opposite line is run back to the front of the property, as called for in the deed, falls short of meeting the front of the lot on the street. It is evident that at some time there must have been a mistake made in copying the deed.

By this mistake one side of the lot is described as 17 chains and several links in length while the opposite side is but 11 chains and several links in length. Mr. Van Keuren asks for relief claiming that he owns land beyond the line fence as located by witnesses who have known the property for a long time. He also asks for damages on the grounds that at the time he purchased he believed the property beyond the fence as called for in his deed was a part of the property and he claims that this portion of the property is the most valuable. He denied that Mr. Farrar pointed out the boundary as the line of trees at the rear.

The case was continued in court until late Thursday afternoon and at the conclusion of the testimony Judge Rosch stated that the case was not one for the jury to decide but a question of law and therefore took the question from the jury and reserved decision in the matter.

Plans Fight for Executive Budget

Governor Smith Considers Drive This Fall to Elect Democratic Assembly—Wants Constitutional Executive Budget and Real 48 Hour Week Bill.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Albany, May 15.—Governor Al Smith is seriously considering a statewide campaign this fall to urge the voters to elect a Democratic assembly. It was learned at the capitol today from persons close to the executive.

The governor would like a Democratic assembly so he could accomplish these two things at the 1926 session of the legislature:

1. Provide for a constitutional executive budget.
2. Provide for a real 48 hour week for women and minors in industry.

While the senate will be in control of the Republicans at the next session, the governor is said to feel he could get many of his measures through that body if he could get them passed in the assembly.

For the last three years the governor has been battling with the Republicans in the assembly trying to get them to pass a measure providing for a constitutional executive budget. They have steadfastly refused to do so as the governor suggested, but at each session they have passed a Republican executive budget. This year they said it was modeled after the Dawes budget now in use at Washington. The governor vetoed the Republican budget plan, charging it was a "joke."

There are many at the capitol who believe the governor will be successful next year in securing the passage of a bill carrying out his idea of a 48 hour working week for women. This year the Republicans rejected the Democratic measure and passed one of their own. The governor vetoed the bill characterizing it as a "fraud and deceit." It would have given the Industrial Board the right to fix the hours of labor of women in any particular industry. The Republican senate, however, passed a bill which would have been acceptable to the governor but the Republicans in the lower house defeated it.

At the time the governor vetoed the Republican executive budget bill, he remarked:

"Next year we will have a real fight for real executive budget."

VERDUN'S HERO BURIED

"He was a great soldier."

The body was escorted to the cemetery by units of the various French and Colonial troops which had served under Mangin's command during the war. Two regiments in all, of infantry, artillery and cavalry paraded.

The band of plumed and helmeted republican guards played Chopin's Funeral March.

Kingston American Legion's Proposed Memorial Building

Permanent War Memorial on West O'Reilly Street Will Be Public's Tribute to Those Who Died in World War Besides Providing Suitable Quarters For Those Who Survived—Total Estimated Cost $35,000—Break Ground Sunday.

Kingston has erected appropriate memorials to those who have died in defense of the Union in all wars except the World War.

God forbid that we should ever forget those who sleep under the surging billows of the sea, beneath the white crosses in the mist-shrouded depths of Meuse Valley or in the tangled fastnesses of the Argonne. Nor those whom we, with reverent hands, tenderly placed to eternal rest within the bosom of our own beloved county.

Any proposition, having for its object the erection of a memorial to those brave lads who died to keep America American, will surely find immediate and generous response in the hearts of their countrymen.

American Legion Memorial Building.

Various kinds of memorials may be erected. What better memorial can be imagined than one that testifies of our devotion to the heroic dead and our gratitude for the living who were tried and not found wanting? It is becoming a national custom to give utility to memorials to the dead. It is therefore proposed that our memorial, here in Kingston, be erected in the form of a building which will serve also as a home for our local post of the American Legion. In the edifice planned a place has been reserved for the memorial tablet which the building will house. This tablet and building will be dedicated to those who died for the flag they loved so well—on battlefields, at sea, in camp or hospital, as well as those who have since died from injuries and diseases contracted in service.

When taps has been blown over the grave of its last member, Kingston Post will pass out of existence forever. The Memorial Building will then become city property, to be maintained as a permanent memorial and to be developed to such public use as may be found appropriate at that time.

Description of Building.

Plans for a beautiful brick, colonial building, 26 ft. x 46 ft., have been prepared by Charles S. Keefe, a Kingston architect having his New York office at 247 Park avenue. Here, several years ago, that the erection of a memorial was contemplated. Mr. Keefe offered his service gratuitously and has since generously given of his time and thought. The execution of his long and careful planning will give to Kingston a building that will be an attractive addition to the development of one of our important civic centers.

The building will be located on a lot 59 ft. x 199 ft., on the south side of West O'Reilly street, near Broadway. The first floor will contain an entrance hall, in which will be placed the memorial tablet; a trophy room; reading room, office, coat room and toilet room.

On the second floor are provided an assembly hall for post meetings, connected by folding doors with an assembly hall for the auxiliary, a ladies' rest room and a kitchen.

Estimated Cost.

Land $2,500
Building and Memorial Tablet 26,000
Equipment 5,000
Excavation, Grading, Etc. 1,500

Total cost $35,000

To Break Ground Sunday.

Ground will be broken at a community ceremony which will be held on the site of the memorial on Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Prominent speakers will address this mass meeting of citizens.

Campaign.

While the executive committee, headed by Chairman John D. Schoonmaker, is already busy canvassing advance subscriptions to this worthy cause, the real campaign will not start until Monday, May 18th. Teams furnished by the various fraternal and civic organizations will then take the field. The response of the people has already been generous, and the American Legion invites every one to have a share in the erection of this memorial. The widow's mite will be as important as any other. Let this memorial truly be a tribute from the entire city—every citizen.

Taxi Honeymoon For Richest Bride

John D. Rockefeller's Granddaughter Starts Wedding Trip in Simple Style—Will Tour Europe Afterward—To Live in Small Apartment.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New York, May 15.—Starting their honeymoon in a 15-cent taxi cab—50 cents for every one quarter mile thereafter—Abbey "Babs" Rockefeller, the 21-year-old richest heiress in the world, and her 25-year-old limited income law clerk husband, David Meriwether Milton, were figuratively lost to the world today. Where they were honeymooning, they will return to New York tomorrow and depart for Europe. They will remain abroad four months. When they return they will settle down to housekeeping in a small apartment.

The mystery of the young couple's whereabouts was second to the mystery among the Rockefeller-Miltons and a general public as to the amount of the check which the richest man in the world, John D. Rockefeller, pressed into the bride's hand during the wedding ceremony at the house of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., the bride's father, late yesterday.

The bride's father declined to make public a list of the gifts, nor were they shown to the 1,500 invited guests. Among the guests were Governor Al. E. Smith and Chauncey M. Depew.

The bride wore a dress of silver colored net embroidered with points of Paris lace and silver colored border.

Winter Relief For Rum Fleet

Government Decides Navigation Needs Protection During Winter. So Rum Armada Will Be Broken Up In Autumn.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

New London, Conn., May 15.—The backbone of the government's prohibition fleet will be withdrawn from the "eastern liquor front" about September 1 and prepared for the winter campaign to protect navigation. International News Service learned today.

The seagoing cutter section of the fleet, without which the smaller patrol boats can operate only on a limited scale, will be sent into dry dock for a month's conditioning. These boats will not be available for the rum war until next spring, except as they may be spared from their primary duties.

Officials explained that every available sailing craft of the coast guard must be utilized during the winter months in his sailing and ship protection work.

With this annual sacrifice of the coast guard and its duties fixed by executive order of the president, rum fighting may become a secondary consideration from September until April.

The anti-rum flagship, the cutter Niagara, has been borrowed from her regular station at Honolulu. Other cutters will be on duty between Norfolk and Maine in keeping navigation channels open or going to aid of ships in distress.

Miss H. C. Potter, 12 years old, Windsor, died shortly after the accident. Her daughter, May, severely injured, was taken with many of her injured companions to the Hotel Dieu.

The bus driver, Orville Baudeau, explained that the din caused by the women who were singing lodge songs, drowned the sound of the locomotive whistle. The locomotive was moving only six or seven miles an hour, but it upset the bus at the first impact and ground it along the right of way before it could be stopped.

District Governor's Address.

In his address, "What is the Real Purpose of This Conference," District Governor Caven said:

Before handing over the district gavel to his successor, it is customary for the outgoing district governor of Rotary to speak a few words in review of his year, to outline his conclusions regarding the job of Rotary and the best ways to accomplish that job, based upon his personal and intimate experiences with the clubs throughout the district during the past twelve months, and finally to point out, if he may, the directions which appear sanest and most productive to him for Rotary's future growth. Instead of dealing with these points in the order named, however, your humble servant will reverse them, so that the last will be first and the first will be last.

Why Rotary Grows.

To begin with, then, the conviction is growing upon us all that this remarkable increase in numbers, strength and influence which has stood out in connection with Rotary's twenty years is due to something other than merely good organization or the charm of novelty. Deep beneath all this, Rotary has been able to grip some fundamental feeling or yearning in the hearts of all sorts of men, and capitalize upon it. What is this central root which Rotary has tapped? To my way of thinking, international friendship. Everitt

"Christian, Jew, Hinduist and Confucianist can rather stand at a table at a Rotary Club meeting and absorb and learn of Rotary without giving a thought to the fact that they hold different religious beliefs. This is only possible because Rotary is founded upon a principle to which they can all subscribe." Everitt did not mean that all these men hold different religious beliefs, but rather that they hold different theological beliefs. Reluctantly they think alike, and that thinking centers about a Golden Rule of conduct and a conviction of individual stewardship and responsibility in life. It is because men do believe alike in this mystery and undefined religion that Rotary has been able to sweep around the world like wild fire. It has found the tap-root of humanity's better self, of which service is the crown and glory. And this is the religion of Rotary, and the explanation of its phenomenal growth. In no sense, as we may differ, and even be naturally toward each other in the different, but in essential we are agreed, and Rotary's strength lies in mighty unity.

Rotary Looks Forward.

To the end that these fundamental principles may be emphasized, Rotary calls upon each district to assemble in an annual conference. Today we are here only to glance back, but primarily to look forward. Rotary has not yet reached the place where it is content to sit down and congratulate itself upon what it has done. Our biggest work is ahead. There is a prospect of a bright future.

When Ulster Boy Died in Battle

Glorious American Soldier Not Dimmed by Passage of Time—Recalled by Letter From His Chaplain to His Parents.

In connection with the American Legion Memorial Building Drive for funds there are many people in Ulster county who will recall the sad days of the war when news was received of the death on battle field or in hospital of some of Ulster's sons.

There are many such letters in Ulster county and they help to give a better understanding of the intensity and devotion with which the Legion members are seeking to have Kingston's War Memorial take the permanent form they ask.

The following reprint from The Freeman of November 12, 1918, is one of many such letters:

Pianze, Sept. 24, 1918.
Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Graham,
Sanger, N. Y.

Dear Friends:
I have just learned that through a rushup my letter of condolence to you, written after the battle of the Ourcq, has not been sent. I assure you that the passage of time has not lessened in any degree our regard for one dear to you and to us our sympathy for you in your loss.

It will be a source of help to you, as it has been to us, who daily face a similar fate, to know that he died a noble death, gallantly pushing forward to meet the enemy. His life was not spent in vain; his resolution helped to gain a signal victory for our arms in the battle which marks the turning point in this terrible war and which will help the world nearer to a lasting peace than any event in the last four years of strife.

His death was sudden but not unexpected. He had faced it steadily since he first enlisted for service. He prepared himself for it religiously by making his peace with God and he met it with a high, gallant spirit.

I buried him on the field where he fell, his fittest resting place. A cross marks his grave and the place is properly recorded May God grant peace and rest to his dear noble soul and give comfort and help to those that grieve his loss.

FRANCIS P. DUFFY,
Chaplain, 165th Infantry

Persian Legend
The discovery of wine, a Persian legend says, was due to the toothache of a queen, who sought death in some fermented grape juice which the king had set aside as poison. Her toothache was cured instead.

DEVELOPMENTS IN FUND ACTIVITIES

Recent major developments of the American Legion campaign to raise a $5,000,000 endowment fund for disabled veterans and orphans of the World war have been: Organization of the American Legion Endowment Fund corporation to administer the fund, selection of the Fletcher-American National bank at Indianapolis as a depository for the fund, extension of the campaign to include every state in the country and the final clean-up campaign in the South.

National Commander James A. Drain, announcing the formation of the endowment fund corporation, said that it was established solely to administer the fund. It is not authorized by its articles of incorporation to do anything else, he said. "The corporation was created," the commander declared, "in order to provide absolutely for the safekeeping and proper administration of the fund in perpetuity. The fund is a sacred trust. The Legion has left no stone unturned to insure that the income derived from it shall be used for the relief of the disabled veterans and the orphans of the war and for that purpose only."

Commander Drain is president of the corporation. Gen. John R. McGuire of Cleveland, banker and member of the Legion's national finance committee, is vice president. National Judge Advocate Robert A. Adams is secretary and John H. Eukene, director of administration at national headquarters, treasurer of the corporation.

Directors are, besides the president and the vice president: Gov. James G. Scruggs of Nevada, Judge Royal A. Stone of the Minnesota Supreme court, Alexander Fitz-Hugh, Mississippi business man; Gen. Charles H. Cole, Massachusetts; Wilder S. Metcalf, Kansas, member of the Legion's national finance committee; Edgar B. Dunlap, Georgia, also a member of the finance committee; and National Adj. Russell Owsen, Indiana.

At the same time, the campaign for the fund was extended from the states in the South and Middle West, where it was first launched to include every state. In the East it was extended into Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, District of Columbia and Ohio. The Western group was composed of Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana, Wyoming, Idaho, Washington, Oregon, California, Nevada, Utah, Arizona, New Mexico, Texas, Oklahoma, Iowa, Missouri, Colorado and Nebraska.

Urges Continuation of American Legion Sports

Charles W. Paddock, of Los Angeles, sprint champion, who has been called "the world's fastest human" is interested in "world athletics." With Loren Murchison he started recently to tour the world under the auspices of many athletic associations and governments to create a more definite interest in track and field competition. Speaking of the value of athletics in promoting world peace, Mr. Paddock said:

"In ancient times the several Greek states were brought into a bond of fellowship surpassed by no similar international treaty that exists today. And if those people could accomplish this through the spirit of sport, more than two thousand years ago, it would seem that in this enlightened age, the whole world might come to share a similar feeling."

"The American Legion, for example, has fostered sport unceasingly since its creation and a continuation of this same policy will greatly increase our percentage of athletes, remove the spirit that creates war and will hasten the day when men the world over can say, 'We are brothers.'"

Legion Aids in Finding Places for Unemployed

During the past year no fewer than 2,000,000 men found employment through the federal government working in co-operation with state agencies and the American Legion, according to a report by the United States employment service of the Department of Labor at Washington.

In states not having public employment service to co-operate with the federal government, liaison is maintained between the "jobless man and the manless job" through the agency of the Legion.

Unskilled day laborers and trained executives alike secured jobs through the government and its allied agencies.

A Legion service official, commenting on the work of finding men jobs said:

"The finding of employment for men out of work is a necessary public function. Nothing on earth is so important to a man as a job. As it is too little attention is paid to the assembling and distribution of human labor."

Valuable Wood

White oak logs have been dug up in a swamp near Chicago. Many centuries ago a terrific storm flattened out a whole forest, and in the course of centuries the timber was buried but preserved by some chemical agent in the soil. The timber is very hard and of exquisite color. It is used for hairbrush backs and ornaments demanding very high prices.

THRILLS OF DROP FROM AIRPLANE

Parachutists Make Interesting Experiments.

There is a theory that if one should have the misfortune to fall, say, from a cliff-top or high building, one would be dead before one hit the ground.

But what aerial experiments now seem to indicate is that a man can fall at a great speed through the air for quite an appreciable distance and yet retain control over his faculties and know what he is doing. "Ariel" writes, in the Washington Post.

In one test recently an experienced parachutist deliberately postponed the opening of his apparatus, after he had sprung from a high-flying airplane, until he had fallen sheer through the air for five or six seconds. Then, precisely when he had intended to do so, he pulled the necessary cord, opened his parachute, and sailed to the ground.

Some of our biggest aerial thrills nowadays occur in experiments for perfecting parachutes or, as they are called, "airmen's life belts."

Leaping from an airplane at a great altitude to test an experimental apparatus, a pilot fell like a stone for such a distance before his parachute opened that his downward rush set up such air friction that, as he declared afterward, "it began to feel as though it was burning my face."

There was another thrill when a novice, learning how to parachute jump from a fast-flying airplane, got his gear entangled with the rear control surfaces. The parachute was torn and those in the airplane gave him up for lost. But, even with his parachute damaged, he managed to alight without injuring himself, although his rate of descent was far greater than it should have been.

One civilian pilot, gliding down to land, found that his controls had become jammed when he was only 150 feet from the ground. Jumping out with his parachute, the apparatus opened in the nick of time, and enabled him to alight without injury.

What an efficient parachute means to an airman was shown recently when, on a dark night and when flying high over a big center of population, a machine developed mechanical trouble. The pilot managed to steer it away until it was above open country, and then, springing from it with his parachute, made a safe descent upon the dark countryside below, the machine crashing some distance away and bursting into flames.

Of Different Families

The swordfish belongs to the mackerel family and has a large protruding bony snout, which is a formidable weapon that can pierce the sides of small boats. The "sawfish" belongs to the shark family and has a long, flat snout with from 20 to 25 teeth on each side of it.

LEST WE FORGET!

In 1917 and 1918 our youth marched bravely away to fight for us in the Great World War.

Some of them never returned

Others since have joined the still marching columns of the dead.

These brave souls made the greatest sacrifice than can be laid on the altar of liberty.

Shall they pass unnoticed?

The American Legion Memorial Building will be Kingston's perpetual remembrance of them.

In Flanders Fields

By Lieut. Col. John McRae.
(Died while on duty in Flanders.)

In Flanders Fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row,
That mark our place; and in the sky
The larks, still bravely singing, fly—
Scarce heard among the guns below.
We are the dead. Short days ago
We lived, felt dawn, saw sunset glow,
Loved and were loved, and now we lie
In Flanders Fields.

Take up the quarrel with the foe!
To you from falling hands we throw
The torch. Be yours to hold it high!
If ye break faith with us who die,
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders Fields.

(Reprinted from Kingston Daily Freeman of November 11, 1918.)

A Message To McRae and His Comrades In Flanders Fields

By George Propheet.

Sleep, and rest in peace, McRae,
We caught "the torch", we've won the day
"That marks our place", whereat the foe,
Now kneeling, and with head bowed low,
The mercy begs his bloody sway
Ne'er showed to living thing that lay
Across his path to block his way;
To make the world live speechless woe
To feed his lust.

So sleep in peace, those "faithful" pray,
And pledge their further faith this day,
Long as larks sing, and "poppies blow",
Shall memory's altar be aglow
With love for you, who sleep for aye
In Flanders Fields.

KINGSTON, N. Y., MAY 13, 1925.

At the age of 91 Chauncey M. Depew confesses that he has never played golf, tennis or baseball and that he never reads the sporting page. Evidently there are other ways of keeping young, contrary to some considerable part of the popular impression.

Automobiles killed 19,000 and injured 450,000 persons last year, but little is said about it, yet there would be a great outcry against railroads responsible for a tenth of such slaughter. Presumably the explanation of the difference is to be found in the fact that the majority of the voters now drive or possess automobiles.

TAX REDUCTION NOT DEAD.

President Coolidge is taking no chances with his tax reduction program. Already the campaign is on in earnest. He has the jump on Congress by six months, and it is quite apparent that he intends to make the most of it. His first attempt at scientific reduction was thwarted by those Congressional demagogues who used the rich man's bugaboo to cover petty politics among constituencies, which in the very nature of things, could not be versed in the intricacies of a perfect system.

The opportunity for such tactics this year will be considerably reduced. Into the states where the demagogues found the best opportunities of fooling the people last year the president is planning to send the most competent men in the administration to explain his tax program.

That is the meaning of Mr. Mellon's tour through the South. It is particularly significant that he went all the way to Mississippi to explain the A B C's of taxation reform to the constituents of Pat Harrison and his neighbor Tom Heflin over in Alabama. A little later we will find Mr. Mellon in the Middle West doing some educational and missionary work in states whose representatives in Congress were largely responsible for blocking portions of the administration's program more than a year ago.

Meanwhile General Lord, director of the budget, has been carrying the gospel of economy throughout the country. It is rather a sad commentary on the personnel of Congress that two of the busiest men in Washington must leave their desks to explain away the fables that have been spread by senators and representatives, but such is the fact.

General Lord and Mr. Mellon will be followed by other representatives of the president who will explain in detail how another $300,000,000 may be pared off the tax bill next year if the country will insist on honest action by a majority in Congress. There is very little doubt that the campaign will succeed and that the program will be adopted at the next session with little change and less delay.

It is the Coolidge method of appealing to the good sense of the people directly rather than attempting to "trade" with certain members of the national legislature.

ONE COMMISSION LESS.

Because the Radicals in Congress cannot control the Federal Trade Commission, it is reported they will move for the abolition of the Commission when the next Congress meets. And they probably will have little trouble in bringing about that end, for however much the Commission may have been improved since President Coolidge took the reins of government, it developed an immense amount of ill will under the previous Administration, and, indeed, during the campaign of 1924, besides Federal commissioners are being called. They meddle too much and achieve too little. They are more destructive than constructive, and they are one of the symptoms of bureaucracy. The work they are supposed to do could probably be quite as well accomplished under departmental control.

The Federal Trade Commission has in the past been the most picturesque body of the lot and the report of its good work would not occupy much space in printed form. It was a democratic creation, made at a time when the States were being reduced to mere provinces, and individual rights had been made matters of public inquisition. So long as Radical politicians could use it to stir up trouble, they were content to have it remain. Now that some sense had been put into it, they desired to kill it. There will be few who attend the funeral.

That Body of Yours

PAIN AT BACK OF NECK.

The most frequent pain you get in the neck is right at the very back. It causes stiffness and considerable soreness on movement in any direction.

One of the frequent causes is sitting in a warm room where a cold draught strikes the back. The neck is the only exposed part, and the neck muscles therefore suffer.

Another frequent cause is from riding in a closed automobile where the air is allowed to come in through the windshield. The air strikes the roof and back of the car, and in returning strikes the neck again.

Also in sitting in a motor car, in the theater, church or concert hall, where you have to hold the chin slightly upwards, this pain will ensue, due to holding this posture for too long at a time. I mentioned this once before, and had you recall how the muscle at the top of the shoulder would get the same kind of an ache or pain in it if you held the arm outstretched. You see this steady action of the muscles uses up the food part of the muscle, and so much waste is made that it cannot be removed by the circulation. This deposit of waste or ashes, actually pains the little nerves in the neck.

Perhaps you have awakened up with this pain in the neck, and it remains with you for some days.

The same thing has happened here. You have been lying in the one position with your shoulders perhaps on the pillow, and then your head would have to be bent over to reach the pillow, whereas with the shoulders off the pillow, your neck would be straight or slightly stretched, instead of bent.

What to do?

The old fashioned applications are best.

Apply some hot cloths to the neck, then bend it forward and backward a few times, and then use the hot applications again. Do this three or four times a day.

TRICKS OF MEMORY HARD TO EXPLAIN

Recollections Swayed by Condition of Mind.

I have had my full share of those emotional experiences which are supposed to make indelible records on the memory, yet they are imperfectly remembered.

I have been operated on in a hospital, and have had my days of fighting with death, yet of all the faces that surrounded me, and particularly of the great surgeon's bent over me in such anxious care, I have no clear vision. On my death, I could not answer be were dark or fair, and if I met one of my nurses in the street, I should not know her; but the thing clearest in my memory is that as I went to the operating room my surgeon played a Beethoven sonata on the grand piano which stood in the corridor.

To speak of something even more intimate; my father's face has grown dim to me, but the face of a young girl I saw at a concert when I was nineteen or twenty floats up detached and lovely, like a white lily on a dark pool; or like an apparition made immortal by an artist's brush.

And it is the same with nature. The great panoramas have become dim and clouded, but some humble feature of the landscape stands out as though all the light of day were concentrated on it. There is a valley in Wales which I saw but once; it lies deep and silent between two conical peaks of volcanic origin, and through it runs a little river which sends up a tiny thread of sound; yet this valley impressed itself indelibly upon my memory.

For years after I chanced upon it I never ran the water into my bath without the sound of that mysterious river echoing in my ears. It gave me a strong sense of something occult and secret, and at times I dreamed of it.

And, again, on a road I took almost daily in New England, I came suddenly one day upon a maple which was a mass of yellow flame against a blue sky, and while I remembered nothing else about the road, I always see that arch of fire burning quietly against the evening sky.

Why are such things remembered, when so many more important things have been dimmed by time? I can only suppose that at the moment when I saw them I was peculiarly plastic to their influence, or, to put it another way, was sensitized, like the plate of the photographer, to their impression.

—W. J. Dawson in the Century Magazine.

TWENTY AND TEN YEARS AGO.

HOW

COINAGE OF SILVER WOULD SAVE TREASURY MONEY.

Some time ago it was announced that the United States treasury would seek to put silver dollars into circulation to a greater extent than has prevailed for some years. Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Charles S. Dewey reveals the reason. In speaking in Boston Mr. Dewey said that a dollar bill costs 1.7 cents for printing and it lasts about four months. A silver dollar costs 1 cent for minting and it lasts indefinitely, says the Pittsburgh Gazette-Times. If 40,000,000 silver dollars are put in circulation to replace bills there will be an immediate saving of $1,000,000 a year. He remarked further, "Mr. Mellon is vitally interested in creating savings."

A million dollars saved to the United States treasury is of not less value than $1,000,000 saved in any other enterprise, and the shrewd financier is seen in the discovery of what some might think so small a leak as not to be worth bothering about.

How Colonial Postal System Was Organized

In the English colonies in America before 1639 such postal facilities as existed were supplied by private enterprises. In 1690 the General court of Massachusetts took the first step toward the establishment of a government postal system. In Virginia each planter was required to convey the dispatches, as they arrived, to the next plantation, and so on. In 1672 the government of New York established a monthly mail to Boston, and this practice was followed in other colonies. Benjamin Franklin was identified with the early interests of the colonial post office. In 1737 he was appointed postmaster of Philadelphia. In 1735 the delivery of letters by penny post was begun. In 1755 the colonies combined to establish their own post office and to pay the necessary officials. The Continental congress appointed a committee to devise a postal system, which went into effect July 26, 1775. Benjamin Franklin was unanimously appointed postmaster general.

How Indians Explain Formation of Canyon

An Indian legend says that the Grand canyon of Colorado was made single-handed by Pack-tha-aw-l, who was armed with a large flint knife and a big stick. Once upon a time the world was covered so deep with water that nobody knew what to do until Pack-tha-aw-l took the initiative. The knife he thrust deep into the heart of the earth, hammering until the canyon was formed, the Family Herald says. Another legend says that there was a great chief who mourned the death of his wife Tavwaots. One of the Indian gods came to him and told him his wife was in a happier land and offered to take him there that he might see for himself if upon his return, he would cease to mourn. The great chief promised. Then Tavwaots made a trail through the mountains. Then he railed a river into the gorge so broad and raging that it would engulf any that might attempt to enter thereby.

How Race Has Advanced

Just when and where and also how did the human race develop from some more or less ape-like ancestry? This is the most important of the questions which anthropologists are seeking to answer. Because most of the anthropoid apes of today are inhabitants of Africa, savants have held that Africa was the scene of man's emergence from darkness and the realm of brutes. Recent discoveries have tended to strengthen this assumption. Nevertheless there is reason in the argument of those who still hold that central Asia was "the cradle of the human race."

The plateau of Iran was long given the honor. Now, however, scientists are looking farther east and are casting very inquisitive eyes in the direction of the Desert of Gobi.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

How Characters Grow

Two of the most remarkable instances in fiction where a character has gradually gained his maker's respect and affection may be seen in Mr. Pickwick and Dick Swiveller; compare the unpromising first appearance of these men with their development. Dickens could not have imagined any such growth in grace when he conceived of these characters; they won his heart in spite of himself. Clyde Fitch used to say that he would begin a play with a perfectly definite idea of what his characters would be and to do; and then the characters would take on behaving in a totally different fashion and he was forced, in spite of himself, to obey and follow, rather than have his own way with them.—William Lynn Fowler in Scribner's.

How Credit Is Employed

It is estimated that about 60 per cent of the transactions in retail trade and about 80 per cent of the transactions in wholesale trade are settled by means of credit instruments—checks, trade acceptances, drafts and notes.

World Flyer and Editor to Lecture

Jack Harding, Aviator, and Glen Frank, Editor of Century Magazine, Secured by Federation of Women's Clubs for Next Season's Course.

The last executive committee meeting of the Federation of Women's Clubs for this season was held at the Kingston City Library on Thursday afternoon and proved to be an important meeting. Following the report of the secretary, Mrs. Drake, and the treasurer, Miss Healy, the question of having an annual lecture course next year came up for discussion. It was the unanimous opinion that the federation would be doing well, both for the community and itself, to bring to Kingston next season two celebrated lecturers as they did so successfully the past season.

Mr. Rifer, representing the Alvericks Lecture Bureau of Boston, addressed the meeting and presented the talent which could be provided by that bureau. After careful discussion of many famous lecturers, it was unanimously decided to have Jack Harding, one of the men who participated in the recent flight around the world, who can talk as well as fly, who was an air-pioneer, and who will show many moving pictures and stereopticon views taken on his flight around the world. The other lecturer chosen was Glen Frank, editor of The Century Magazine, one of the outstanding writers in America. Mr. Frank has just been honored by being asked to become president of Wisconsin University. His subject will be "An American Looks at His World."

federation were represented. Mrs. C. N. Reed, representing the federation on the Ulster County Musical Association, asked those present to make themselves responsible for seeing to it that members of their respective clubs make application for membership in the association during the week of the intensive drive for memberships.

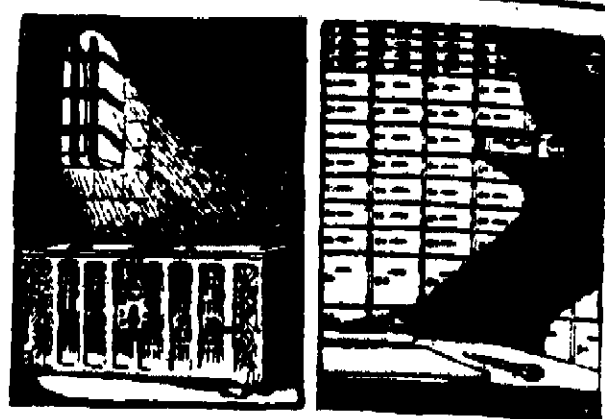

As chairman of the good government committee, Mrs. Reed reported also that there would be a special meeting of the common council next Tuesday evening, May 19, at the city hall, at 8 o'clock, when it was hoped that several matters now in committee would be brought up, and all present were asked to attend the meeting.

A committee on moving pictures was created and Dr. Mary Gage-Day was appointed chairman. The federation voted to contribute $25 to the campaign fund of the Kingston Y. W. C. A., and the public health committee voted to give $25 toward the American Legion Memorial Drive.

The annual and open meeting of the federation will be held at St. John's parish house, Wall street, on Saturday afternoon at 2:15 o'clock. Officers for the ensuing year will be elected and there will be three-minute written reports from the various clubs and committees. The federation will entertain its members and Dr. Der, the retiring president, will give a lantern slide illustrated lecture of her recent visit to Hawaii and the accompanying trip.

Racial Distinctions

Dr. Allen H. Huxley, curator of the division of physical anthropology, National museum, says that there are only three great divisions of the human race, the population of the white, the population of the yellow, and the population of the black. He says that the population of the white race is 550,000,000; the population of the yellow race is 1,000,000,000; and the population of the black race is 100,000,000.

Ancient Chest or Modern Vault

Two hundred years ago only the very rich had any protection for their valuables. And these old chests were but poor protection.

Now, for less than a cent a day, anybody can keep valuables in our modern safe deposit vault. Steel, concrete and human vigilance make our vault as safe as humanly possible. It is convenient and economical. It makes your old tin box an expensive risk. It frees you from worry.

Hard to Find Anything That Really Is "New"

The principle of the rotorship, the most sensational of recent inventions, is acknowledged by its inventor to be based upon an invention of Doctor Magnus, made no less than seventy-five years ago.

Of all proverbs there is perhaps none truer than that there is "nothing new under the sun," and the more you study the history of inventions the more deeply you become convinced of its verity.

Take, for instance, wireless. So long ago as 1842 Professor Morse sent signals across the Susquehanna river merely by means of wires stretched along the banks.

Twelve years later, in 1854, that amazing Scot, James Lindsay, read a paper before the British association in which he boldly stated that if wires were run along the coasts of America and Britain, and properly charged, he could send messages across the Atlantic.

Penny-in-the-slot machines were used in the London coffee houses so long ago as 1820. They were in the shape of a tobacco-jar, which stood upon a table and had a slot in which a penny had to be inserted in order to obtain a pipeful of tobacco. Exactly as in the modern machine, the weight of the coin depressed a lever and released a lock.

The motor car, too, is much more ancient than most of us think, for the first automobile constructed by Cugnot, in 1769, is still on view in a Paris museum. By 1835 numbers of mechanically propelled vehicles were moving upon English roads. In the "Trin," a motor coach of that date, twenty people traveled comfortably.

Four years earlier, in 1831, a horseless coach, constructed by Dance, plied regularly between Cheltenham and Gloucester. It covered in all nearly four thousand miles, and carried three thousand passengers at an average speed of twelve miles an hour.

A submarine boat was exhibited in the Thames in the year 1825, and Fulton, the American inventor, built one for Napoleon.

Even the typewriter is a great deal older than most of us imagine, for there is a record of an application for a patent for a machine of this kind in the same year that Queen Anne died.

The Extreme Edge

"Dancer could be happy with anybody," said Henry, "only she must have sympathy."

"Diana blushed. She appeals to you very strongly," it appears.

"All her sex appeal to me very strongly," said Henry. "You see, I travel along the extreme edge of the straight and narrow, so most of the women I run up against are like myself—on the right track, but only just, and liable to wobble off. Awfully nice people, you know."

"Diana smiled with tight lips. "Don't you think that if you went along the middle of the road you'd meet nicer ones still?" she asked.

"Oh, nicer, I suppose, yes," said Henry, with a little sigh, "but for good company, give me the edge."—From "Muddled" by Dan Travers.

All Diners Blackballed

The "Club de Cret Klor" is not one of the most exclusive clubs in Paris. The only condition an individual has to fulfill to be permitted to join it is to weigh more than 200 pounds. There are several hundred members, who meet every month in a well-known restaurant, which closes its doors for the day to other patrons, a "secret," it is said, which the proprietors is glad enough to make. The members come from all walks of life. There are distinguished actors like Robert de Flers and Pierre Benoit, taxi drivers, four sovereigns, a field marshal and a leading member of the French Communist party.

Better Than Ever

A testimonial in a newspaper runs: "After using your wonderful preparation my hair is entirely covered with hair, and very thick."—Bertie Travers.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

by MARY GRAHAM BONNER

THE FIVE SENSES

Sydney was not at all pleased with things about him. His toys bored him, games did not amuse him. He was feeling quite cross.

He wished he were not so unfortunate.

"When my toys wear out I have to wait until Christmas or a birthday before I get any more. I haven't anything nice now," he grumbled.

"I haven't got the luck some boys have. Some boys have all the luck. I haven't anything nice."

He didn't like anything. He didn't like anything or any one today. He was angry at nothing in particular, but at everything in general.

He didn't want to play. He didn't want to read. He had the Sulks with him and they didn't make him happy. The Sulks never do. They come from Sulky Way in Sullen Town and any one from Sullen Town is never happy.

The Sulks climbed over him and settled down upon him so that he was quite covered by Sulks.

When any one feels cranky and irritable without any reason at all, it's all the invitation the Sulks need to come around.

Sydney was grumbling about his bad luck when all of a sudden five lovely creatures came and stood before him. One was playing a tune upon a violin and listening as he played.

One was eating a delicious fresh strawberry and you could see how much he was enjoying it.

A third was smelling a sweet little arbutus or May flower.

A fourth was looking at a bunch of spring blossoms in her arms, gazing at them so admiringly, so happily.

The fifth was stroking the soft fair hair of Sydney's little sister, whom she held in her arms.

"So you are saying you have nothing," the five lovely creatures said together.

"And yet you have me," said the first.

"And me," said the second.

"And me," said the third.

"And me," said the fourth.

"And me," said the fifth.

The Sulks were edging off to one side.

"What do you mean?" Sydney asked.

"You have everything," the five lovely creatures said together.

"Some haven't me," said the first.

"Some haven't me," said the second.

"Some haven't me," said the third.

"Some haven't me," said the fourth.

"Some haven't me," said the fifth.

"What in the world do you mean?" asked Sydney.

The first lovely creature spoke. He was a most beautiful boy and just before he spoke he played several notes on his violin. The notes were so lovely it made Sydney almost want to cry with joy.

"You have me," said the first. "For I am the sense of hearing. Without the sense of hearing you could never hear music, you could never hear the ocean's deep, wonderful roar, you could never hear the pines whispering, you could never hear a waterfall, you could never hear the voices of those you loved."

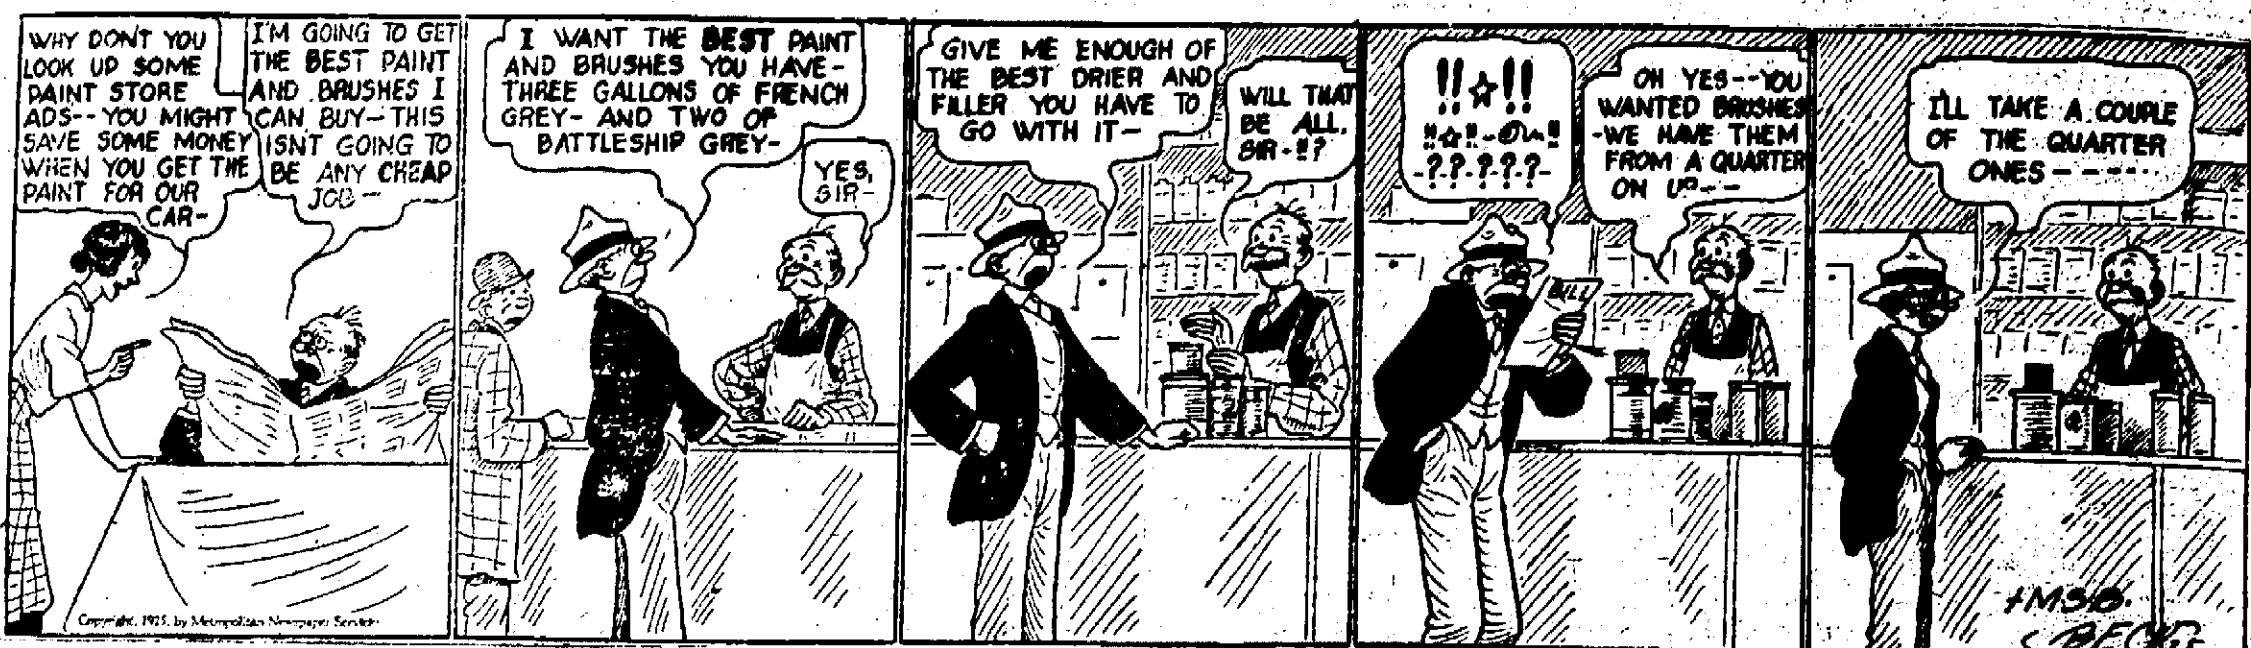

"You have me," said the second. "For I am the sense of taste. Without the sense of taste you would never be able to enjoy ice cream or fresh fruit or summer vegetables, or buttered hot popcorn on winter nights. Everything would taste the same to you—medicines and sodas. 'You have me,' said the third. 'For I am the sense of smell. Without me you would never know the smell of the hayfield or the sweetness of flowers.'

"You have me," said the fourth. "For I am the sense of sight. Without the sense of sight you would never know what the sky was like, or the clouds, or a sunset. You would never know just what a rainbow was. You would never know what color means. You would never see the trees flaming in the autumn or gay with blossoms as they are now in the spring."

"You have me," said the fifth. "For I am the sense of touch. Without me you could never feel your mother's hand or your daddy's great coat, or your little sister's soft hair."

"Some haven't all of us, and you have all of us. Yet you complain. The Sulks had snuck away. Sydney was free of them. "Oh, you wonderful creatures," he cried. "Of course I have all of you. What an idea I've been!"

GAS BUGGIES—It's Much Easier Said Than Done.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

The Lost Colony.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

SOON AFTER RALPH LANE DESERTED ROANOKE ISLAND, SIR RICHARD GREYVILLE REACHED THERE WITH SUPPLIES AND RECRUITS.

IN THE SPRING OF 1587 RALPH SENT OVER 150 COLONISTS IN THREE CHARTERED VESSELS TO MAKE THEIR HOME IN AMERICA. AMONG THEM A FEW WOMEN AND CHILDREN. THE COLONY WAS UNDER THE COMMAND OF JOHN WHITE.

LANE HAVING REPORTED THAT THE CHESAPEAKE BAY WAS A BETTER PLACE TO PLANT A COLONY, IT WAS DECIDED TO BUILD THERE. HOWEVER, WHEN THEY STOPPED AT ROANOKE ISLAND TO PICK UP THE MEN GREVILLE HAD LEFT. THE SAILORS REFUSED TO GO FARTHER AND SETTING THE COLONISTS ASHORE SAILED OFF WITH TWO OF THE SHIPS.

FORCED TO REMAIN ON THE ISLAND, THE SETTLERS WORKED HARD TO BUILD A PERMANENT SETTLEMENT. BUT SOON BECAME DISCOURAGED. IT WAS HERE THAT VIRGINIA DARE, THE FIRST CHILD OF ENGLISH PARENTS IN AMERICA, WAS BORN.

IN AUGUST, 1587, WHITE SET OUT FOR ENGLAND IN THE REMAINING VESSEL FOR SUPPLIES. WHILE WHITE WAS IN ENGLAND A WAR BROKE OUT WITH SPAIN AND HIS RETURN TO ROANOKE WAS DELAYED FOR SIX YEARS. WHEN HE FINALLY GOT THERE THE SETTLERS HAD DISAPPEARED, LEAVING ONLY THE WORD 'CROATOAN' CARVED ON A TREE.

CROATOAN WAS THE NAME OF A TRIBE OF NEIGHBORING INDIANS. BUT THOUGH A THOROUGH SEARCH WAS MADE NO TRACE OF THE MISSING COLONISTS WAS EVER FOUND. RALPH'S COLONY WAS A SAD FAILURE BUT IT POINTED THE WAY FOR FUTURE COLONIZATION. TOMORROW-- THE TWO COMPANIES.

SUMMER DESSERTS

There is no dessert more popular than some form of frozen dish.

Strawberry Sherbet.—Take two cupsful of strawberry pulp, made by mashing the fresh berries. Boil one and one-half cupsful of sugar and two cupsful of water for ten minutes. Soften a half teaspoonful of gelatin in two table-spoonsful of cold water and add to the hot sirup. Add the juice of half a lemon and one-half cupful of orange juice to the strawberry mixture; add the sirup when cool and freeze. When the mixture is partly frozen add a well-beaten egg white with two table-spoonsful of sugar; continue freezing. Raspberry juice strained from the seeds is especially delicious for this sherbet.

Raspberry Bombe Glace.—Line a three-pint mason mold with raspberry ice. Fill the center with sweetened, flavored whipped cream. Pack in ice and salt and let stand for three to four hours.

Apricot Cream Sherbet.—Measure two cupsful of canned apricots, put through a potato ricer, add three-fourths of a cupful of sugar, and let stand three hours. Fold in one cupful of whipped cream and freeze.

Raspberry Ice.—Take four cupsful of water, two cupsful of sugar and boil six minutes. Cool; add one and one-fourth cupsful of raspberry juice and the juice of half a lemon. Freeze as usual.

Pineapple Cream Sherbet.—Take two cupsful of grated fresh pineapple, cover with sugar, using a cupful; let stand three hours, fold in one cupful of cream, whipped stiff, and freeze.

Panama Sherbet.—To one and one-half cupsful of sugar add one cupful of water, boil five minutes and cool. Put six medium-sized bananas through a ricer; add two cupsful of orange juice and two table-spoonsful of lemon juice; add to the sugar sirup and pour into the freezer. When partly frozen add the beaten white of an egg and two table-spoonsful of sugar; mix well and finish freezing.

"You have me," said the first. "For I am the sense of hearing. Without the sense of hearing you could never hear music, you could never hear the ocean's deep, wonderful roar, you could never hear the pines whispering, you could never hear a waterfall, you could never hear the voices of those you loved."

"You have me," said the second. "For I am the sense of taste. Without the sense of taste you would never be able to enjoy ice cream or fresh fruit or summer vegetables, or buttered hot popcorn on winter nights. Everything would taste the same to you—medicines and sodas. 'You have me,' said the third. 'For I am the sense of smell. Without me you would never know the smell of the hayfield or the sweetness of flowers.'

"You have me," said the fourth. "For I am the sense of sight. Without the sense of sight you would never know what the sky was like, or the clouds, or a sunset. You would never know just what a rainbow was. You would never know what color means. You would never see the trees flaming in the autumn or gay with blossoms as they are now in the spring."

"You have me," said the fifth. "For I am the sense of touch. Without me you could never feel your mother's hand or your daddy's great coat, or your little sister's soft hair."

"Some haven't all of us, and you have all of us. Yet you complain. The Sulks had snuck away. Sydney was free of them. "Oh, you wonderful creatures," he cried. "Of course I have all of you. What an idea I've been!"

Kingston High School Notes

On Thursday morning, at a regular assembly of the high school, Mr. O'Leary, athletic instructor of the school, sang two selections in place of the regular Thursday morning program of the orchestra. Mr. O'Leary sang "Sylvia" (by Oler Speaks) and "Songs by Mother Taught Me" (by Dvorak).

Saturday the K. H. S. tennis team will play a double header. In the morning at the Forsyth Park courts at 10 o'clock they will play the Albany Academy quintet. Three weeks ago when the locals went to Albany the match ended in a 2-3 tie. This match promises to be a good one. At 3 o'clock on the Forsyth Park courts the locals will line up against the team from the LaSalle High School of Troy. In past years the up-river school has had some strong tennis teams. This year they ought to give the local boys a good run for their money.

Saturday afternoon will find the K. H. S. baseball team in Albany, where they will play the Albany Academy nine at 5 o'clock. Last Saturday at Kingston the Albany team defeated Kingston by the score of 13-3. The local boys, although they will be playing without the services of regular short stop Flanagan, expect to make a better showing than they did last Saturday.

Tonight at 8 o'clock in the K. H. S. assembly hall the annual music association operetta will be held. The members of the music association have been working for a long time on this operetta under the careful supervision of Professor Spaulding. Dancing will follow the operetta in the gym.

This afternoon the K. H. S. debating team left in cars for Nyack, where they will debate the Nyack High School team at 8 o'clock. Among those who went were Charlotte Wheeler, Mayer Koplovitz, Elsie Tetley and Bernard Yoopp, all members of the team. Four members of the K. H. S. faculty and several students accompanied the team. If the team wins from Nyack tonight they will win the Rutgers College Interscholastic Debating Cup.

Reform Mayor

MRS. JOSEPHINE SLATER

Mrs. Josephine Slater was elected Mayor of Cherry Valley, Ill., once reputed "wide open," on a promise to "clean up" the city, after male Mayors had supposedly failed to do so. Mrs. Slater, immediately after taking office, commenced a campaign of raids against dance halls and resorts.

Color Combinations to Be Used This Season

Fine brown lace draped over and entirely covering peach-colored satin. A black crepe de chine dinner frock, trimmed with loops of beads shading from pale to dark gray.

Black rep is used by Nicole Groult for a little street frock with a yellow taffeta waistcoat and white organdie jabot and cuffs.

Navy chiffon is posed over violet satin in an interesting afternoon frock. A charming evening frock is of chiffon shading from sky blue to sap phire, with the sole trimming a girde of brilliants.

A lovely afternoon frock is made of two shades of fuchsia taffeta.

A stunning evening gown is of white satin trimmed with jet and crystals.

Favorite color combinations are "natural" and brown, orchid and purple, periwinkle blue and white, navy blue with red, and lavender green and gray.

Earliest Known Letters

It was formerly believed that the earliest extant collection of formal letters was the series of about 150 Greek epistles professing to have been written by the tyrant Phalaris of the sixth century B. C. A controversy arose, however, and Richard Bentley, in his famous "Dissertation on the Letters of Phalaris" in 1709, demonstrated, as is now universally admitted, that they are of comparatively late origin, about the second century A. D. Among the early genuine letters of the Greek period are those of Isocrates (died 338 B. C.), time is number.

The
Blossoming Child

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

WONDERS of Nature all around—
And yet the very queerest.
The one that folks have always found
The strangest and the dearest,
Is not afar afield somewhere,
But in a cradle over there.

For who has watched an opening rose
Some country hedgerow under,
Has seen its lovely lips unclose,
Nor marveled at the wonder?
But stranger than the woodland wild
Is this, the blossoming of a child.

And you who o'er the cradle bend,
If you neglect your garden,
Shall fail to nourish and defend,
What God could ever pardon?
A wonder He has given you,
And yet a wealth of duty, too.

For you must keep the weeds away,
Each tempter that assails it,
Must watch the blossom night and day
With love that never fails it.
Oh, what a privilege is this,
Life's opening petals thus to kiss!

And it shall poorly bloom or fair,
As you shall see your duty,
Shall bloom according to your care,
A thing of light or beauty,
God grant you see the wonder of
Your rose, and watch, and tend, and love!

Something to Think About

By F. A. WALKER

BEING NEIGHORLY

THOSE attractive communities nestled here and there in quaint rustic places where the bees are humming, the wild grasses are waving in the passing breezes, and the tinkling of bells is heard in the purple pastures, tell a beautiful story of peace and content.

Often far away from the clamorous haunts of mortals where gold is god, driving, lashing, heaping burdens of care upon galled shoulders, stealing from life its sweetest delights, these little hamlets, when one comes unexpectedly upon them seem to reflect the quietude that we imagine exists among the courts of Heaven.

A few scattering cots where everybody is neighborly, tell a story of friendliness and cordiality of which the nations throughout the world seem quite unfamiliar.

Being neighborly is the simple secret of universal happiness, the panacea of world ills, ruptures and revolts.

Although the happy man feels very kindly toward others, others must reciprocate the feeling to get happiness all around, and this all around happiness is available to everybody.

Who does not catch something of the thrill of delight experienced by two lovers in the lane, loitering hand and hand?

To them buttercups are as sweet as roses, the sky is always blue, the sun is perpetually shining and the birds are singing for no one else.

And so it is with the folk in the humble cots, contented with their station in life, pouring praises each day from their hearts which seldom find utterance in words, but stir their souls to sublime emotions.

We may be highly meritorious, we may have the power of a king, the learning of a Meccenas, the wealth of the Indies but if we are not neighborly we cannot be happy, at peace with others, or escape wrangles, wars of words and murderous arms.

If neighborliness does not come out in our behavior toward one another, there is within the soul an unrelenting sentiment, in spite of our affected smiles and assumed good manners.

When once the high places of the world decide to be neighborly and put their decision into actual practice there will be no more "rumbling of cannons and guns," no more killing of brothers and wanton waste of priceless treasures, impoverishing peoples for aces.

Court's Definition of "Wound" Is Precedent!

The Supreme court of Louisiana held in the case of the state against several persons, in which one of them had been convicted of an assault in which he did "wound short of main line," that a "wound" is a breach of the skin, or of the skin and flesh, and there need be no effusion of blood, according to the Journal of the American Medical Association.

The word "wound," according to the court, implies a permanent injury or crippling, and according to the better use is not a synonym for mayhem, which is a particular, aggravated form of crime. A mere breach of the skin, or of the skin and the flesh may be produced with a stick, and such injury would clearly constitute a wound in the meaning, that is, less than a permanent injury or crippling.

"Mayhem" implies a permanent injury or crippling, and at common law consists of bodily harm so serious, such as to render him less able to defend himself, or less able to support his adversary, as distinguished from one which merely disfigures or does not disable.

How It May Work Out

A cynical old bachelor says that "Stop, Look and Listen" may be a safety sign when it refers to traffic, but if one stops and looks at a pretty woman there is danger that he may have to listen to her later on.—Boston Transcript.

Frocks for Afternoon are smartly simple

A minimum of trimming and a maximum of chic. Straight and slender, then capriciously adopting godets, tiers and pleats that give them a new grace.

In black satin or high colors. In prints or sheer crepes. With a touch of color to brighten and heighten their charm.

No limit to their slender smartness, but a definite limit in the matter of price.

MAKES MILLIONS IN TWENTY YEARS

Canadian Immigrant Tells Story of How Dreams Came True.

Toronto, Ont.—Nineteen years ago James Franceschini, Italian immigrant, arrived in Toronto penniless, unable to speak a word of English. A policeman took pity on him and found him shelter for the night. Ten years later, in 1916, after years of varying fortune, he was not only penniless but heavily in debt.

He has just caused a sensation by purchasing for his own use from A. B. Ormsby one of the show residences of Toronto, a magnificent villa with Italian gardens overlooking Lake Ontario. He is reported to be worth millions.

Fifty years ago and less contractors made huge fortunes in railway construction. Franceschini is a product of the new era of motor cars. He has made his fortune in the construction of highways.

Tells Story of Career.
To a reporter Franceschini related the story of his romantic career. "I came out here nineteen years ago," he said, "and I shall never forget the night of my arrival. I was only fifteen years old and absolutely friendless. I had not even a cent to rattle in my pocket. At the station a policeman took me in charge. When he found out just how destitute I was he found a family who agreed to look after me. On my second day in Toronto I took a job as a laborer. "I was awkward with the tools and succeeded in driving the pick through my hand," Franceschini pointed to an ugly scar on his left hand. "For two weeks they kept me in a hospital. Fortunately when I got out my job was still open. In those days I couldn't speak a word of English. The foreman was an Italian, and every week he demanded five dollars from me. I couldn't refuse him, because had I done so he would have refused to tell me what to do, and then I should have been helpless.

"In the end an opportunity came to work at another job for 15 cents an hour, and I decided to take it. It was a lower salary, but at least there would be no rake-off.

New Job Soon Ends.
The new job didn't last long, and I decided to go into the bush. Four hundred of us shipped out of Toronto to work as laborers.

"Of all the jobs I've had the job in the bush was the worst, because it turned out to be no job at all. When the 400 of us arrived after a trek across country there was no work waiting for us and no money. We had to find our way back as best we could.

"When I got back to Toronto I got a job mixing concrete on a board at 15 cents an hour. If you've never mixed concrete you can never realize how hard the job is. I used to be working nine hours a day, and in the evening I would take on private work digging out cellars.

Company Is Formed.
"It was digging out cellars that first gave me a real start. I talked to two of the other fellows working on the job and we agreed to hand ourselves together as a small company. I went out looking for work and the others did the work after I got it."

Franceschini paused a moment and held a match to his cigar. "Funny thing," he went on, "but I've still got one of those fellows working for me. We did pretty good digging cellars and made more money than we should have got as wages, but after a while the other two got tired of the arrangement, so we dissolved partnership. Afterward I hired them as laborers.

"Up to that time all our carting had been done in wheelbarrows, but I'd managed to save up a bit of money and I bought a horse. I thought I was getting along fine with a horse and cart, but would you believe it—the horse went lame on me, and we had to go back to the wheelbarrows again.

"However, each job I took was a bit bigger than the last. Bit by bit I got equipment together, and it was experience in those days that made me a believer in plenty of equipment.

"Things went along good until the war came. About that time a subcontractor got a job from a construction company at Engle's Falls and he came to me and asked if I would like a share with him. I was a bit doubtful, but finally went into partnership—and lost every cent we had and got a pile of debts to pay as well.

"I nearly gave up then. I was heartbroken.

Get Some Good Advice.
"I went to a man named Trammann who was doing some contracting and asked him for a job. He was a bit surprised, but he said he had a job for a foreman. When everything was fixed up and I had decided to work for somebody else for the rest of my life he suddenly refused to let me take the job. 'You make money for me,' he said, 'but you can make more money for yourself. Go and start up in business again.'

"I hadn't a cent, and I told him so. 'Never mind,' he said, 'just go out and start up; you can do it.' I went out of his office, and by afternoon I had a team of horses.

"How did I do it? About the only thing my creditors left me was a tiny pony. I took it down to the market and, managed to find somebody who was willing to swap two old horses for it. The horses were not much good, but they were a start.

"That summer—it was 1906—I worked hard, and by the time winter came I was able to pay every debt in full; I had five teams of horses and some property."

It was shortly afterward he got into highway construction. On his first Job the stipulation was that it should be finished in 30 days. He finished it in 23 days. He has since worked under three successive provincial governments and in nine years has rolled up immense profits.

Going Broke His Salvation.
Franceschini was asked what he considered to be the turning point in his fortunes. Without hesitation he said: "It was going broke—that did me more good than anything. For one thing it taught me not to buy anything until I could pay for it in cash. Before then I had always bought goods on the 'dollar-down, and dollar-when-they-catch-me' plan.

"Another thing I learned was to avoid partnerships. When you have a partner you must hesitate and consult him before you take any action. I don't like that—I like taking decisions quickly and acting upon them at once. Besides, if I make money I want to make it myself, and if I lose money I want to lose it myself."

Women in Fight to Stop Bird Slaughter

London.—Use of stuffed humming birds for decorative purposes in dress has aroused the ire of the Royal Society for the Protection of Birds, which issued a new appeal recently to women, urging them to abstain from wearing the feathers of egrets, birds of paradise, herons and other rare species in the name of humanity and common sense. Importation of the plumage of these birds and others is prohibited by an act of parliament passed in 1921.

There is a tremendous illegitimate traffic in the plumage of these rare birds, not only in England, but in the United States and other parts of the world, according to statements made at the annual meeting of the society in London, when ways and means were discussed to put an end to this business.

A proposal was made to form an international committee under the League of Nations, and the duchess of Somerset likened to savages the women who adorned themselves with these contraband feathers.

Mrs. Fox Pitt made a striking speech, in which she startled the members by announcement that recently she had seen an evening gown with stuffed humming birds all over it. She counted them, she said, and was astonished to ascertain that 127 of the little creatures had been used for the "creation."

Another dress described by Mrs. Pitt required the skins of 14 birds of paradise to be sewed into the material.

Blue Bedrooms Banish Insomnia, Doctor Finds

Paris.—There is a new cure for insomnia. A very simple cure. It is to upholster and to decorate one's bedroom in blue, a quiet, subdued blue. When that is done it will no longer be necessary to pass sleepless nights counting innumerable sheep leaping over innumerable fences. One will fall back on one's pillow and sink into immediate and deep slumber. Morphine will dwell in one's chamber, amenable to every call upon his soothing presence.

This cure has been discovered and announced by a French doctor, who modestly hides behind a mask of anonymity. But this is what he says:

"It is necessary to live in blue. Red both tires and excites. It is the section of the spectrum the least favorable to man's well-being. Green makes one happy, but is somehow depressing. Blue alone is calm and quiet. Let us immediately upholster our rooms in this divine color and let us light our rooms with a blue light (by means of colored bulbs) so that no other color may contradict the effect we are striving for. And in order to have the proper transition from this sedative light to ordinary daylight, we should upholster and light our vestibules in green."

That is all that is necessary. Life will no longer be sleepless, troubled and gray; life will be happy and rosy if we but live in blue.

Russ Royalists Worry Authorities of Poland

Warsaw.—Russian royalists who cannot refrain from intriguing to get a czar back on the throne of all the Russians, are having a rough time in central Europe these days. Poland does not care to be the center of movements of this kind, and whenever the evidence is sufficient the police call around and take a group of agitators to jail.

A recent raid in Warsaw on supporters of the claims of Grand Duke Cyril brought into the net Count Toli, Baron Tiefenhausen, Prince Araloff and a number of other titled Russians, chiefly former army officers.

A specific charge was spying upon the Polish army. Documents captured with the prisoners are said to reveal all sorts of plots for the re-establishment of the Russian empire.

Plans Exposition

Brussels.—An international exposition will be held in Brussels in 1930 to celebrate the centenary of Belgium's independence. So far 17,000,000 francs of the 25,000,000 needed have been subscribed.

"Enquette" Extraordinary

In a box of etiquette published in 1920, directions are given as to how to grab the meat with the hands. The writer advises the use of three fingers only, and among his "don'ts" are: "Don't keep the hand too long feeling about in the dish; don't take too large a piece; don't wipe the fingers on the coat."

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A Youthful Seasonable Style.
5081. Plaid and plain flannel were combined to create the pleasing effect illustrated. The design is also attractive in linen in one or two shades or colors, or in taffeta. The dress may be finished with short or long sleeves.

The pattern is cut in three sizes: 16, 18, and 20 years. An 18 year size requires 1 1/2 yards of plain material 40 inches wide and 1 3/4 yards of plaid, checked or figured material. If made as illustrated, if the dress is made of one kind of material 40 inches wide 2 1/2 yards will be required. Without long sleeves portions 2 3/4 yards will be required. The width at lower edge of the dress with plaid extended is 2 3/4 yards.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

THE VERSATILITY OF THE BLOUSE.

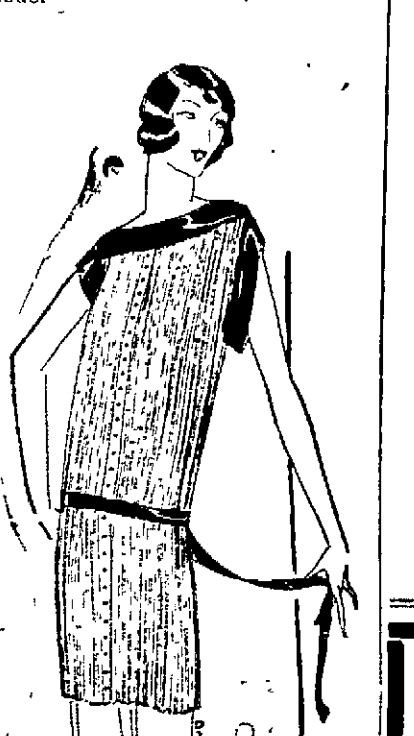

(By Eleanor Gunn.)
The flexibility of the blouse mode is extraordinary. There are coat blouses, sweater blouses, tunics, shirts and jumpers—plain, elaborate, long-sleeved, short-sleeved or straight—and there is as much variety in material.

The Awning Stripe for the Coat Blouse.

The coat blouse of sheer material is among the latest arrivals, and comes close on the heels of the coat blouse in taffeta. Of course, there have been offerings of tunics in white and ecru embroidered batiste, ever since the visit of the Prince of Wales, for one of the women in his party sponsored blouses of this ilk.

In line with the vogue for sheer fabrics and the ensemble is offered the coat blouse. It is quite long, so that when worn over a slip or a dress, it harmonizes with the current model.

Velvet Ribbon Again! This Time With Pleated Georgette.

Such shades as green, navy blue, red, or purple are favored, a smart note being offered in the satin bands that match. The tailored collar and long sleeves complete an attractive item toward the summer ensemble, either as a coat or as a long tunic worn over a slip.

"Turtle-necks" and "windjamers" are words one must learn to repeat glibly, when discussing current blouse fashions.

"THEY ARE WEARING"
Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.
In New York.

An interesting underarm purse of gray lizard skin has dangling from the side an acorn-shaped vanity of jade green enamel.

A young girl who attracted considerable attention the other day wore a costume suit of king blue cloth, the straight coat in monotone, topping a dress which was the same shade boxed in white, the solid color forming the trimmings. Her felt hat also matched and her scarf was a red fox.

Many very wide wale silk coats are being worn, usually in black or the warm brown colorings.

Gray and tanterine combinations are increasing their vogue in street effects.

A chic jacket to a two-piece suit of gray cloth used a waistcoat of gay plaided flannel.

Some of the smartest ensembles which warmer days bring forth are of blonde bengaline, without any trimmings. Others use matching fur borders.

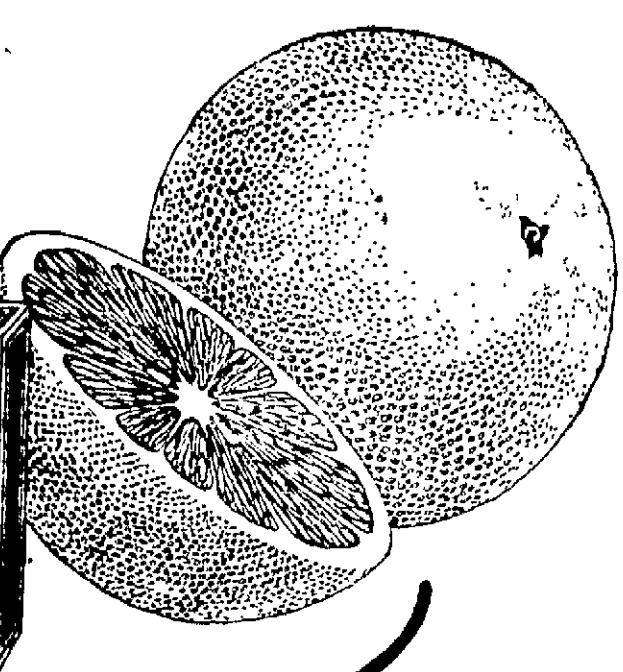

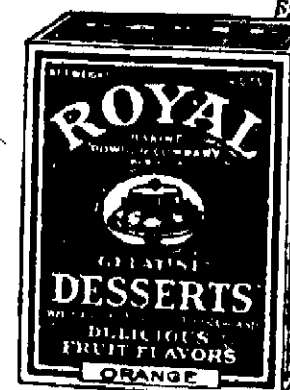

Contrary to what has been the mode thus far, small felt hats in contrast to the costume hats have been noted.

A smart boutonniere consisted of three rather large carnations, one deep red, another helena, and the third pinky beige.

Sale of Articles Made by Blind

Will be Held First Week in June—Women of City Churches to Have Charge—Entire Proceeds Go to Blind People Who Make the Articles.

There was a large attendance of women of the city at the Kingston City Library on Thursday afternoon in the interest of the sale of articles made by the blind of New York state, soon to be held in this city as in former years. The chairman of the committee having the sale in charge was Mrs. W. N. Fassenden.

Mrs. Frost, president, and another representative of the Albany Association of the Blind were present at the meeting and told of the work of the association which makes many of the blind people in the state quite self-supporting and consequently happy instead of a burden to themselves and friends. Among other things, he told the women that last year's sale brought to the workers some $2,000 more than any previous sale. These sales are conducted in different cities by the women of the various churches, so that all of the proceeds from their work goes to the blind people who have made the articles sold.

Mrs. Thomas Hayes and Mrs. Frederick B. Hibbard were chosen to have charge of the "store" this year, which will be at the corner of Cedar street and Broadway in the building owned by Mrs. Barnham, an excellent place for the sale, which will be held the first week in June. Mrs. G. N. Wood will be the treasurer again. Mrs. Raymond Whitbeck acted as secretary of the meeting.

The churches whose women will have charge of the sale are as follows:

Monday, June 2—9 a. m. to 1 p. m., First Reformed Church; 1 p. m. to 5 p. m., Fair Street Reformed Church; 5 p. m. to 9 p. m., Reformed Church of the Comforter.

Wednesday, June 4—9 a. m. to 1 p. m., Roundout Presbyterian Church; 1 p. m. to 5 p. m., Lutheran Church of the Redeemer; 5 p. m. to 9 p. m., Temple Emanuel.

One thing the world needs is an amplifier for the still small voice.

There is a senator whose first name is Finis. Wonder just what his father had in mind when he named the youngster.

The National Kraut Association at its Chicago convention advocates the use of Sauerkraut pie. Young wives should try it. Hubby can't say "Not so good as the sauerkraut pie mother used to make."

It begins to look as though Dawes will about be the hardest vice-president to forget that we have ever had.

Gloves That Are Smart and Generally Welcomed

Who ever dreamed that gloves—common, practical, everyday gloves—that one wears for shopping, marketing, driving—would be turned out in the many fancy styles one finds on the counters of the shops, big and little! When once public taste had departed from the conventional glove that went up and down, in and out, with history, the greatest freedom and variety were expressed in glove fashion.

The gauntlet gloves have been the thing, almost the only thing for two seasons past. They seemed at first like reminders of the quaint little gauntlet or mit that went with the "funny" costumes of long ago, when styles such as ours today would have looked as strange as those old memory things now appear to us. Now, with standing the incomgruity of short sleeves and short gloves, the little gauntlet made its stylish way, and now it is tremendously modish, worn in whatever manner one prefers.

Georgette on Brocade Shawl
The shawl continues to hold its own as the fashionable wrap for evening. Not only are the Spanish and Venetian shawls more beautiful than ever but new models have appeared. There are huge squares of gorgeous material bordered with a hem at least a foot deep made of double georgette in a solid color.

Simplicity in Lingerie
Simplicity is the keynote of the new lingerie show on exhibition. One beautiful example is a camisole and set. The top is absolutely plain in open shape, with elastic arms. The bottom is accented with the hem cut in deep points. Ivory, sky and peach are the color tones used.

Which?
The latest question is: Are you a go-getter or a have-it-bringer?

In Love Tragedy

Although she expected to become a mother, she steadfastly refused to marry Brown, despite pressure brought to bear by welfare workers.

Concerning Patents

"Patent pending" on a manufactured article means the same thing as "patent applied for." It means that the inventor of the article has applied for a patent but that the patent office has not yet granted it. If the patent office has reported favorably on an application for a patent, but has not yet issued it, "patent allowed" is put on the manufactured article.—Parliament Magazine.

Hudson River Golf Tournament

Twenty-third Annual Event at Powelton Club, Newburgh, Promises to Provide Plenty of Sport for Golfers—Places for "Saturday at Golf."

The twenty-third annual tournament of the Hudson River Golf Association, open only to members of the association, will be held at the Powelton Club, Newburgh, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, June 25, 26 and 27.

The officers of the association are: President, John D. Schoonmaker; vice-president, W. N. Wettern; treasurer, J. F. Barringer; and secretary, T. B. Hornbeck. The members of the executive committee are: R. S. Tompkins, Dr. H. M. Smith, C. V. Benton, R. D. Clomson, N. H. Fessenden and H. Lloyd, Jr.

Prizes.

It has been the custom for the past few years to ask individual members of the association to contribute prizes for the annual tournament. This year the association decided to increase the entrance fee to the annual tournament to $4 which would make it possible for the association to furnish the prizes. There will be the same number of prizes this year for the annual tournament as there were last year, and every entrant in the various events has a fair chance to win one.

The Annual Tournament.

The big feature of 1925 will be the Twenty-third Annual Tournament. An invitation from the Powelton Club at Newburgh to hold the annual tournament on that course has been accepted. Powelton expects to open nine additional holes this season, but there is some question whether they will be ready for the annual tournament or not. If they are not in satisfactory condition by that time, the tournament will be played on the Powelton course. All of the trophies are new and enlarged and the prizes will be in excellent shape for the tournament. Luncheon will be served at the club house each day.

Eighteen handsome prizes will be presented to the winners: a low gross, a championship, winner of each sixteen, runner-up of each sixteen, winner of each beaten eight, and consolation four ball match. There will be nine prizes for each "Day at Golf." The championship trophy was won last year by C. V. Benton of the Hudson River Country Club for the third time, and thus he came his property. The association is providing a new trophy this year which will be offered under the same conditions as in the past.

Team Matches.

The method of playing team matches employed last year was found to be so satisfactory that the same arrangement will be followed this year. There will be six team matches, one on each Saturday at golf. Six handsome and valuable bronze shields are to be the prizes. These shields are to become the property of the golf whose team wins the trophy.

The four players from any club who have the lowest gross score on a "Day at Golf" are to be declared the winners. One of these bronze shields will be sent to each club in the association. It is to hang in the club house until the "Saturday at Golf" when the team which wins it will take it home with them and their home club will have the names of the team engraved on the trophy and hang it in the club house. This method of playing team matches was adopted because every club in the association has a good team of four players. These players can try six times during 1925 to win a handsome trophy for their club.

Saturday At Golf.

These days at golf have been the great feature of the association for the past twenty-three years. From Yonkers and Nyack in the south, to Kingston and Middletown on the north, there are about two hundred ardent golfers who have a friendly acquaintanceship with each other.

This friendship among the golfers of the Hudson river valley has made the Hudson River Golf Association one of the most cordial and satisfactory golf organizations in the United States. It is also one of the oldest organizations.

To continue these friendly relations and induce ever greater numbers to attend these "Saturdays at Golf," the executive committee voted to give nine prizes at each of them. The players are to be divided into class A, B, and C, the same as last year, and there are three prizes to be given in each division—the first prize to the low gross, the second prize to the low net, and the third prize to the second low net.

For the last three or four years there have been about one hundred players in each "Saturday at Golf." This has made about thirty-five players in each division. A. B. and C. As these one day tournaments are all played on a handicap basis, every player has an equal chance of winning a very good prize.

On each "Saturday at Golf" during 1925 there will be a team match which will make an added interest. All ties are to be decided by lot. The entrance fee is one dollar.

"Days At Golf."

The days at golf are:

June 12—Orange County Golf Club.
June 22—Powelton Club.
July 11—Rockland County Club.
September 12—Hudson River Country Club.

September 24—Tweedskill Club.
October 10—Dutchess Golf and Country Club.

The Dutchess Golf and Country Club invite members of the association to a two-day tournament on Saturday and Sunday, October 18 and 19. Saturday being the regular "Day at Golf" at Powelton.

Arrangements for this tournament have not been fully completed at this time, but the following is a general outline.

Saturday morning: Qualifying round for all that desire to enter the tournament. This round should be over by noon, as the October days are not very long. The division would then be in eights and there will be at least two prizes for each eight. Match play Saturday afternoon and Sunday. Those entering the two-day tournament will play their qualifying round and "Day at Golf" round at the same time. Any who desire to play only in the "Day at Golf" may do so either morning or afternoon on Saturday, October 10.

Brown Memorial Trophy.

The Hudson River Golf Association announces the establishment of the Charles H. Brown Memorial Trophy. In memory of Charles H. Brown, a beloved member of the Hudson River Country Club, who died June 9, 1924.

The money to purchase this trophy was raised by subscriptions of association members at large and it becomes a gift to the association from the subscribers. The trophy is to remain always the permanent property of the association. Once each year it is to be offered as a prize in one of the season's events. For 1925, the trophy will be presented to the winner in the first eight of the two-day tournament at the Dutchess Golf and Country Club, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., October 18-19, 1925.

Handicaps for 1925.

There are so many men playing golf that handicapping has become a very difficult matter. All clubs now use the honor system, and a man is placed on his honor to keep his own handicap with the same accuracy as he would his score card. The executive committee continued the use of the Callins system and advised each club to have a convenient place at the club house for posting the low scores of the players. The chairman of the golf committee of each club is requested to have a complete written handicap list at each of the Days at Golf.

The Annual Banquet.

The fourth annual banquet will be held at the Domino Inn, Poughkeepsie, Saturday evening, October 10, at 7 o'clock. The banquet is held after the last "Saturday at Golf" and on the same day. This has become a fixed method of ending the golf season. The committee is working on a program for the banquet which will insure a pleasant and profitable evening for those who attend.

Chinese Hams in England
Hams from China are sold in the land as coming from Ireland, and a witness giving evidence at the Manchester city police court in a prosecution, at the instance of the Manchester committee of the Manchester corporation, for exporting for sale adulterated meat. The inspector stated that he had known Chinese hams imported into England, sent across to Ireland to be stamped and returned sent back to England to be sold as "Irish."

Firemen Plan Big Convention

The Hudson Valley Volunteer Firemen's Association convention which will be held in Newburgh this year is expected to be the largest ever held. So far 58 companies have signified their intention of attending and taking part in the big parade on June 18. Most of the companies will come with their own bands.

If present plans are carried out the convention this year will be the largest ever held in the Hudson Valley since the organization of the Association and the local committee of Newburgh is preparing to provide one of the best times ever provided at a convention. Local firemen are anticipating a wonderful time in June.

Picked Out Bad Place to Write Dispatches

Mr. Frank Scudamore, who recounts this delightful story in his book, "A Sheaf of Memories," is one of the most celebrated of war correspondents, and, naturally, has had many interesting experiences.

During the Greco-Turkish war he was watching the opening artillery duel from inside an important Greek fortress, and when the firing ceased at dark, he and a fellow correspondent sought a quiet spot where they might write their dispatches undisturbed.

This was not easy to find, as everyone was so pleased with the results of this first day's work that merry parties were being held all over the place.

At last, however, they came upon a storeroom of sorts, in which was a profusion of great and small cases, and long boxes, together with innumerable bulging satchels.

"This," writes Mr. Scudamore, "was obviously the place for us. We settled ourselves on a couple of sacks, and placed two candles on another such bag that lay between us."

"We had been working for, I suppose, a couple of hours, when suddenly a curious noise came from the doorway. I looked round. At the entrance stood a Greek officer, his face ghastly white, his eyes dilated, and his lips parted. For a moment I stared at him, perplexed. Then he pulled himself together."

"Mr. Scudamore," he said in Greek and very quietly, "will you bring me that candle? I hastened to pick what was left—it wasn't much—off the sack."

"And the other," went on the dull voice. I picked that up also and stroled toward him. He seized them both, flung himself back against the wall of the corridor, and laughed long and hysterically. Then, after a moment, he took me by the hand.

"This is the powder magazine," he said, "and your candles were planted on a sack of explosives. Had they burnt another inch, not only would the fort have been blown up, but with it the whole Greek cause."

New Idea for Motors

A Polish inventor, an engineer, has succeeded in building a car of his own design for which very important advantages of construction are claimed. The inventor's name is M. Kerpowski and his machine has been called "Polonia" (Poland). The most important feature claimed for the Polonia car is the facility with which various parts can be removed and the whole motor taken apart. In the official tests given the machine by the ministry of war, two automobile mechanics, helped by a boy, took apart the motor, gear set, universal, and rear axle in fourteen minutes and assembled the same parts in thirty-six minutes. The Polonia car has a six-cylinder motor of forty-five block horse power and cylinder displacement of 90 x 125 millimeters. The maximum speed claimed for this car is 100 kilometers an hour.

Afforestation

Earnest effort is being made in many parts of the country to plant forests to provide lumber for the future. More than 35,000 acres is replanted every year, and about 1,500,000 acres of land has been thus restored. Fully three-fourths of this total area has been planted by farmers and other land owners. The federal government has replanted 12 per cent and the state governments somewhat less. Many municipalities are also engaged in the work. Among the other agencies engaged in forest planting are timberland owners, operators of wood-pulp industries, railroads, pulp companies and mining companies.

English Town Bars Jazz

Word comes from London that jazz music has been barred at all municipal dances by the Edmonton urban council, this being the first London suburb to take such action. The council took this step because of numerous complaints from citizens who objected to dances of "the wild, body-wagging type." T. J. Harrington, council chairman, said jazz would not be permitted hereafter at the town dances chiefly because jazz dancers during dances took up too much space, their movements interfering with the orthodox dancers and, besides, "jazzing was neither graceful nor dignified."

Cotton Gin Fires

Static electricity is the principal cause of fires in cotton gins during the ginning process, according to the United States bureau of chemistry. Mr. Harry E. Roethe, development engineer in that bureau, has pointed out the fact that in the seasons when the greatest number of cotton gin fires occurred electrostatic charges have been abundant. At such times low humidities have prevailed and the cotton being ginned was particularly dry and dirty. During the periods when few fires occurred, electrostatic charges have been comparatively abundant. From Troy, (New York, N. Y.).

Dist. Governor Talks to Rotary

verb in national politics at Presidential election time to the effect that "as goes Maine, so goes the nation." We in Rotary have a right to say with still more truth, "As goes the district conference, so goes Rotary International." For here in such conferences as these are the rank and file, the body and spirit of world-wide Rotary ideals. The body receives its significance from its individual members and Rotary takes its power or its weakness from the sort of Rotarians who comprise it. Therefore a district conference is the place where Rotary makes up its books, marks its weaknesses, strikes a balance and proposes to shape the business of its coming year upon the sure basis of its proven strength. For such a purpose have we come together. Let us be alert to our opportunity.

Asking Personal Questions.

In time of war, when battles determine campaigns, and campaigns develop rapidly, the commanding General calls into daily conference his Chief of Staff and his military leaders, who carefully go over with him the reports brought in from the far-flung battle line. At less frequent intervals the Division Generals and Corps Commanders unite with him in a review of the general situation. To such a conference have the various representatives of the clubs in the 29th district been called today. We are here to ask ourselves such questions as these: Where are we weak? Where are we strong? How can the strong be of service to the weak? What plan of campaign have you found most successful? Where can the next advance be most strategically made? Are the lines of similar made? Are the lines of communication with headquarters being maintained wisely? Other questions of similar import will occur to each one of you. Differences of opinion, if voiced for the good of the order, are not only welcomed but encouraged. Many a stroke of genius begins with some quiet, obscure officer in the army. One of the symbols of the good general staff is "the attentive ear." Be prepared to tell us what you think Rotary can wisely undertake.

Dependent On Each Other.

We are dependent upon each other for an exchange of wise plans and successful methods. The District Governor is a scholar equally with the most humble member. In exchanging Rotary ideals, the more we give, the more we have left to take back to our own clubs. Therefore one of the principal aims of a district conference is an open exchange of salable Rotary goods. The District Governor has tried throughout the year to carry to the clubs as have sold well in Rotary. He has tried to be an adviser, not a policeman. Every club should look upon him as a clearing-house. They may get ideas from him which he knows have worked elsewhere, they are equally obligated to communicate to him their successful methods which he can suggest to clubs elsewhere. His dependence upon them is as real as theirs upon him. If not indeed more so. In this sense the success of Rotary in any district depends upon the success of the clearing-house idea. Be prepared, therefore, to tell us what you think Rotary in the district can learn from the Rotary Club in your town.

But still beyond this, the district conference has another vital function. Not only does it link one local club with another, but it is the preliminary step toward linking one district with another, and all the districts with Rotary International. As the members in each club meet with their president and as the club president and secretaries meet with the District Governor, so the District Governors meet with the International President and by this method the humblest voice in the smallest club and the simplest plan that proves itself worth while finally find their way to headquarters, and the whole body of Rotary is benefited by the process. None of this is new information to any of you, but it is repeated to remind you of the vital importance of the district conference.

Spirit of Wholesome Fellowship.

In line with this general policy, Rotary International encourages Inter-City meets. It was not without good reason, based upon clear understanding of human nature, that Rotary adopted as one of its cardinal principles the development of the spirit of wholesome fellowship. Your best schemes will fail if men do not understand each other. Your finest plans will crumble if men do not know each other. Your greatest hopes will die if men do not love each other. Rotary with all its other strong points is dependent upon fellowship, as the separate pearls in a costly necklace are held together by the fine chain that runs through them all.

The Inter-City Meet is a means whereby fellows meet into fellowship. Six hundred fellows are only six hundred fellows until they have gotten to know and trust each other; then they become one fellowship. But the one is a thousand times more powerful than the six hundred separately. The enthusiasm aroused at a district conference cannot always be guaranteed to carry through the whole year until the district assembly again in conference a year later; but the Inter-City Meet can serve to add fuel to the fire now and then during the twelve months, thus keeping the steam at power-point. It may be a task for any club to arrange for an Inter-City Meet and invite Rotarians from a group of nearby clubs as their guests, but the investment will be more than repaid by the increase in Rotary understanding, human fellowship and individual enthusiasm in the things for which Rotary stands. We recommend to the 29th District that some meetings be arranged for, at points which have not yet made the venture. It will prove to be the best investment you ever made in Rotary values.

Argentine's Textiles

The textile industry is becoming quite well established in Argentina, both cotton and wool cloth, hosiery, blankets, etc., being turned out. The mills are comparatively small as yet, and are established mostly in Buenos Aires.

However, Argentine still imports from Europe and the United States, the finer grades of cotton cloth, fine suitings, etc. Argentine is a great wool producer, and is beginning to grow cotton, so I believe that within a few years she will be entirely self-sufficient in the matter of textiles.—William R. Harbort, in Adventure Magazine.

Good Cleansing Process

Alkaline elements can be beneficially cleaned by immersing them in milk of lime for some time, washing them in clear water and drying them when they are dry with a little French chalk. The milk of lime is made by adding enough slaked lime in water to give the water a milky appearance. A second and very simple way is to use soap and water with a little washing soda or ammonia, rinsing them thoroughly afterwards.

ROAD BUILDING

NEW BULLETIN ON RURAL HIGHWAYS

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

There were 2,941,204 miles of rural public roads in the United States on January 1, 1922, according to a bulletin issued by the United States Department of Agriculture, entitled "Rural Highway Mileage, Income, and Expenditures, 1921 and 1922." Of the total road mileage, 387,700 miles had been improved with some form of surfacing such as sand-clay, gravel, macadam, or pavement when the year 1922 began.

The total road mileage is sufficient to encircle the earth at the equator 118 times, while the surfaced mileage was sufficient to gridiron the United States with 73 east and west routes extending from ocean to ocean, and an equal number of north and south routes extending from border to border. Since 1921 surfaced mileage has been built at a rate of between thirty and forty thousand miles per year, of which an undetermined portion has been in the nature of resurfacing of roads previously surfaced.

The bulletin is the result of an investigation by the bureau of public roads, and contains the only complete report covering the entire road work of the country for any recent year, and will be valuable not only in studying the present highway situation, but for the future as a record of highway improvement progress.

Complete data are given for all rural highways by states with reference to types of roads existing in 1921, mileage constructed in the years reported on, sources of highway funds and how expended, and motor vehicle registration statistics. The statistics on highway income and expenditure show state funds and those of local units separately.

The publication, known as Department Bulletin 1279, may be obtained upon request as long as the free supply lasts.

Improved Roads Sign of Progress in Community

The material need and the economic value of improved highways can hardly be a matter of debate. It would be possible to chart the path of progress from barbarism to civilization in terms of transportation facilities, from labored pedestrianism to flights through the clouds. And as for actual roadways for vehicles, it is probably correct to say that poor roads are the obvious advertisements of either a backward nation or a backward community, while good roads are everywhere and always the outward sign of advance and progress, says the Philadelphia Bulletin.

But there are other roads than those that are built of either mud or macadam. There are roads to health that are paved with wholesome food and restful sleep and a plentiful supply of fresh air. There are roads to wealth that are paved with ambition and industry and thrift and infinite patience. There are roads to success that are paved with high enterprise and long laborious days and the kind of desire and determination which will be satisfied with nothing less than real achievement. There are roads also to failure that are not paved at all, but that wind aimlessly along in deep grooves of indolence and ignorance and self-pity. There are also roads that lead to happiness, paved with loyalty to one's friends, devotion to one's ideals and the spirit of generous service. There are roads to pleasure, paved with personal indulgence, that lead to nowhere and nothing, except disillusionment, and in the end, despair.

Sixty Million Is Ready for Work in California

Fear that highway development in California will stop unless the gasoline tax is raised apparently is without foundation, according to figures coming from Sacramento.

These indicate that the state will have some $60,000,000 to $70,000,000 to spend on roads in the next biennial period without any increase in taxes. The sums available include $45,000,000 that will be collected on motor vehicle taxes, $8,000,000 that is now in operating contracts, $12,000,000 in new construction work by counties and road districts, $2,000,000 to be spent by the forest service, and $1,000,000 on the national park highways, a total of approximately $68,000,000 on highways during the next two years.

If this is not enough, more should easily be available, as it is indicated that the state will have a surplus of $22,000,000 in the general fund, part of which could be diverted to highway construction purposes.

Highway Notes

The convention of American road builders predicts perfect roads within 25 years. A perfect road, according to our notion, will be at least twice as wide as the cars people think plenty good enough nowadays.

Improved highways make every part of Pennsylvania easily accessible. Modern thoroughfares connect the centers of production with the centers of consumption. It is possible to drive 2,000 miles in a straightaway without once leaving improved road.

Snakes and Birds

Snakes do not charm birds in the understood sense of the word "charm." The instinctive fear that a small bird or animal, such as a rabbit, has for a snake paralyzes the muscles of the bird or the animal and prevents its escape from the snake.

Caught Mammoth Bass in River

C. F. Ellison of Ulster Park on Thursday caught a mammoth striped bass in a net in the Hudson river. At the same time he netted another large bass. The big bass tipped the scales at 61 pounds and was fifty inches from tip to tip with a girth of 24 1/2 inches. The other bass weighed 19 pounds. Both bass were sold to Lloyd D. Prall who has a fish market at 380 Broadway. The sixty-one pound bass is said to be the largest striped bass caught in the Hudson river in many years.

CURRENT OFFERINGS AT THE THEATRES

Norma Talmadge, supported by the screen's greatest lover, Eugene O'Brien, in a different kind of photoplay, "The Only Woman," pleased large audiences at the Keeney Theatre Thursday. This same program will be repeated tonight and tomorrow. Jimmie Connors' orchestra featuring "Il Trovatore" as an overture, was another decided treat.

The vaudeville at the Kingston Opera House for the last half of this week made a great hit. Every act is exceptionally good and pleased everyone. The photoplay is exceptionally pleasing to the women folks, "Another Man's Wife," starring Lila Lee and James Kirkwood.

At the Auditorium tonight a William Fox production, Edward Lowe in "Ports of Call," will be screened.

Vaudeville that is most pleasing is being offered at the Orpheum for the last half of the week. The feature act Alhambra and Company, is an exceptional one. The picture, "Her Night of Romance," a first National release, is a comedy presenting Constance Talmadge in a love mix-up with an English lord and a London money lender. Tomorrow's picture is Tom Mix in "The Terror."

Before Spell

Colonel John Coolidge, father of the President, returned to his Plymouth (Vt.) home after his examination by specialists in Boston feeling in vigorous health, he said. This photo was snapped during his daily round of exercise. It was shortly after this photo was taken that he suddenly collapsed on a road during a walk, and was carried into a nearby house, unconscious. He revived some minutes later.

Foolish Stubbornness

A stubborn mind conduces as little to wisdom or even to knowledge as a stubborn temper to happiness.—Southey.

Wise Money Goes On Quatrain

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Louisville, Ky., May 15.—Blood is alleged to be thicker than chicken gumbo, among other things, and it was more than significant today that Quatrain and Captain Hal, fairly gorged with the blood of equine royalty were red hot favorites to win the Kentucky Derby tomorrow, and prove the allegation in toto. Both are scions of turf nobility.

Quatrain is the son of Omar Khayyam, winner of the Kentucky Derby in 1917. The Captain is a half brother of Black Gold, which last year won in the stretch as a monarch and champion should.

The kings of course have abdicated through force of circumstances but their heirs are ready to take up the fallen sceptre and recreate a dynasty. Quatrain today stood as the reigning favorite of the race and if he runs the way the smart money says he must, his name, coupled with that of the great Omar, will echo down the halls of time now and forever henceforth. No father and son have won a Kentucky Derby in all the 51 years of its history.

From present indications most of the wise money will ride with Quatrain. The Whitney horses, Chanter, Backbone and Reminder, will get their customary play and Captain Hal and Kentucky Cardinal probably will fall heir to the second heaviest financial attention. But in the final showdown, the public's eye and the public's money will be on Quatrain.

Tagging Major League Bases

The Tigers curled up before Ed Rommel's slow ball and the Athletics won their seventh straight by a score of 4 to 2.

Washington kept pace with the A's by trimming the Browns again 5 to 3. Sisler hit safely for the twenty-ninth straight game.

Herb Pennock held the White Sox to four hits but lost a 1 to 0 decision to Ted Lyons. The Yankee sluggers have not dented the platter in twenty innings.

Pitcher Ben Karr of Cleveland, who wasn't good enough for the Red Sox last season gave them a 4 to 3 beating. Karr added insult to injury by knocking in the winning run in the ninth.

The Giants pulled further away from the pack by defeating the Reds again five to four in the twelfth inning. Alexander the Great subdued the Phillies 4 to 2, the Cubs staging a three run rally in the seventh.

Earl Smith, Pirate catcher, enlivened the game at Braves Field by swatting a three bagger, and a spectator. Police quelled the riot which followed the flaccid stuff. The Pirates won the game 7 to 1.

The Cardinal sluggers patted Grimes to a fare thee well and beat Brooklyn under wraps, 8 to 4.

Many Sightless

The latest available figures show a total of 52,567 blind persons in the United States, of whom 30,160 were males and 22,407 females. Of this number 45,737 were white, 6,302 negroes and 488 Indians, and 40 Chinese and Japanese. These figures relate only to the enumerated blind, but the census bureau estimates the actual number at 75,000 to 78,000 in 1920, an advance over the estimated number in 1910 of about 5,000.

"Radioed" Message

An up-to-date way of informing the teacher of an enforced absence from a class session at White Plains (N. Y.), high school was used by William Meyers. He radioed that he would be absent. He went to the home of a neighbor and used his sending station, 2-PQB, to tell the head of the science department that he could not attend school. The message was received on the school sending and receiving station.

Transplanted Eye

A one-eyed fish with apparently normal vision has been produced in the experimental laboratories of the University of Chicago, according to a recent announcement. In the experiment the eyes of the fish were removed and one was transplanted into the forehead. This operation was performed by Dr. Theodor Koppman, famous European eye specialist, and J. High Falls Gets Girl Scout Prize

At an entertainment given by the Scouts of Kingston, (St. Mary's School No. 2, and High Falls) on April 28th, at the Y. W. C. A. hall the sum of fifty dollars was cleared. This money is to be divided among the troops who sold tickets for the play and is to be toward the troop quotas for the Ulster County Girl Scout Camp or to any uniforms for the girls in the group.

A prize of a Girl Scout bugle was awarded to High Falls for putting on the best play, "Why the Rubble." The committee who were chosen as judges, Mrs. Elva K. Borkart, Mrs. Mark O'Meara, Mrs. N. D. J. Murphy, all members of the Girl Scout Council, and Miss Sarah Horton, chairman of the finance committee of the Y. W. C. A., had difficulty in making their decision. All of the plays, songs and dances were done exceptionally well but the play that won the prize appealed to the committee from the point of being very good publicity for the prevention of rubbish scatterers throughout the country.

POULTRY

MOTHER HEN DOES BEST WHEN COOPEE

It is not good poultry management to allow the mother hen to range un-restricted with her chicks. With such freedom the hen frequently takes her brood through wet grass and, as a result, some are chilled and die, especially the weaker ones which are likely to be left behind. The loss of young chicks which follows such a practice is large and mainly preventable. Furthermore, the food which a brood allowed to range with the hen obtains goes very largely to keep up the heat of the body and the chicks do not make as good growth as they otherwise would.

Chick losses of this nature can be largely prevented by shutting the hen in a coop. Any style of coop which is dry, ventilated, and can be closed at night to protect the brood against cats, rats and other animals, and which, while confining the hen, will allow the chicks to pass in and out freely after they are a few days old, will be satisfactory. The hen should be confined until the chicks are weaned, though a small yard may be attached to the coop, if desired, to allow the hen to exercise. The fence can be raised from the ground far enough to allow the chicks to go in or out, but not high enough for the hen to escape. By using the coop the chicks can find shelter and warmth under the hen at any time and the weanlings, after a few days, may develop into strong, healthy chicks.

When chicks are raised with hens, they are likely to become infested with lice. If the lice get very numerous, they greatly retard the chicks' growth and may even cause their death. The hen should be powdered thoroughly with some good insect powder before she is put in the coop with the chicks, and at intervals of several days or a week thereafter. The baby chicks should be examined for lice, particularly on the head, under the wings and about the vent. If any are found, a little grease, such as lard, should be rubbed in those places. Apply grease moderately, as too much will injure the chicks. The chicks should be examined frequently and the treatment repeated if lice are found on them.

Young Chicks Need More of Mineral Constituents

Young chicks need more of the mineral constituents found in wheat bran than do mature fowls, and the mash fed them are accordingly, usually made to contain more of it. With this change and due regard to the size of the particles of food that baby chicks can eat, there need be little or no difference between a growing chick mash and one fed to laying hens. The chick mash recommended by the New Jersey experiment station consists of three parts of wheat bran to one of sifted ground oats, cornmeal, flour wheat middlings and finely ground meat scrap. With one part of bran, instead of three, and no necessity for sifting the ground oats or finely grinding the meat scrap, this would make as good a laying mash as could be compounded. The above would make a very good mash to be fed with equal parts of cracked corn and wheat. After four to six weeks chicks will eat coarser cracked corn and whole wheat and do not need to have the hulls sifted from ground oats. An excess of meat scrap or of green food might cause some looseness of the bowels. Whatever the cause, it should be corrected; added amount of wheat middlings would not avail.

Green Feeds for Fowls During the Entire Year

Fowls need green feed of some kind all the year round. It should be supplied to hens confined in small yards and to all hens during the winter when no natural green feed is available in the yards. Free range or large yards will furnish ideal conditions for green feed; and this factor is one of the most important in raising poultry profitably on farms where the birds are supplied from cheap, natural sources.

Where smaller yards have to be used, they should be divided into two parts and used alternately, planting the vacant section two or three times yearly with quick-growing green crops of rape, oats, wheat, rye or barley. This furnishes green feed and also helps to keep the yards sweet, clean and sanitary, which is perhaps the most important consideration in making poultry pay.

Good kinds of green feeds are sprouted oats, alfalfa, meal, chopped alfalfa and clover hay, cabbages, and mangold beets. In ordinary cellars cabbages do not keep so well as mangold beets, so they should be used up first.

Why Little Chicks Die

Chicks die in the shell because of lack of vigor in the breeding stock, lack of moisture, overbreeding or chilling of the eggs and other causes which are hard to explain. It is a fact that most poultrymen find the eggs running close to 90 per cent in fertility, and even then have to be satisfied with 80 per cent hatches on the average for the season. A lot of chicks seem to die in the shell during incubation in spite of the best of management.

Character and Goodness

No man deserves to be praised for his goodness unless he has the strength of character to be wicked. All other goodness is generally nothing but indulgence or ignorance of evil.—La Rochefoucauld

Financial and Commercial

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, May 15.—Industrial stocks encountered heavy selling today. Individual advances in Mack Trucks, DuPont, East Iron Pipe and a few of the new speculative favorites imparted early buoyancy to the market and then the buying movement spread to other industrial stocks, the mercantile stocks, and finally to the railroad stocks.

Mack Trucks reached a record high of 165 1/2 in active trading, which market gossip attributed DuPont interests. American Can reached 140 1/2, fractionally above its best previous record.

Wheeling and Lake Erie dominated the low priced railroad stocks. At 33 the preferred stock registered its peak price since 1919. Chesapeake and Ohio led the investment rails with an advance to 98. Erie stocks were firm.

Oil stocks settled back to lower prices. Sugar, equipment textile, shipping and most of the specialty stocks also failed to better their position. Savage Arms, in which bearish traders have been active of late, jumped seven points to 63, while Sumatra Tobacco Preferred sold five points higher.

Call money ruled at four per cent, with a decline to 3 1/2 per cent in the fourth hour.

Coolidge Fears Coal Strike

Differences Between Anthracite Miners and Operators Causes Concern to Government Officials—Wage Agreement Expires August 30.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, May 15.—President Coolidge and his cabinet are frankly concerned over the possibility of a strike in the anthracite coal fields when the present wage agreement between the operators and United Mine Workers expires August 30, it was learned today.

The possibility of a strike hinges on the announced intention of the miners to ask for an increase of from 10 to 30 per cent over the present scale, while the operators are expected to insist upon a reduction of anywhere from 10 to 30 per cent. Along with the wage boost the miners undoubtedly will include a demand for the "check off" which provides for the withholding of union dues from the pay envelopes of the men. The "check off" strengthens the union's hands and the operators will put up a stiff fight to prevent it from being put into effect.

The government will closely watch the negotiations for a new wage agreement and in the event a deadlock ensues undoubtedly will take active measures to insure a continuation of work in the hard coal regions.

While stocks of coal at present on hand are ample to run the country for a considerable period, a strike in the anthracite fields would cause much inconvenience to those sections of the country where hard coal is almost exclusively used for household and other purposes.

The first step in the process of negotiating a new wage scale will be taken late in June, when the tripartite convention of the United Mine Workers meet at Scranton, Pa. This convention will frame and adopt the demands to be submitted to the operators. The latter will then hold their policy meeting and formulate the action they propose to take when the two contending groups meet in some neutral point, probably Atlantic City, about July 15, to begin their negotiation of a new wage agreement.

O'Connor's Plan To Sell Ships

Shipping Board Wants Them Operated Under American Flag—Opposition to Scrap Heap or Junk Prices.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Buffalo, N. Y., May 15.—Chairman T. V. O'Connor of the United States Shipping Board intends to return to Washington tonight and arriving there he will immediately set straight misunderstandings that have arisen and have caused much discussion of the proposed sale of 400 vessels to Henry Ford, the bulk of them to be junked.

"My proposal all along has been the sale of ships for operation by American owners under the American flag," said Mr. O'Connor this morning.

"There are 300 or 400 ships that will have to be junked. But in talking with Ford I talked operation of ships as the first object of the shipping administration. There is no misunderstanding between us but there is elsewhere."

In Washington yesterday members of the shipping board had varying opinions on the proposal that Ford take over 400 vessels at junk prices, and Commissioner Lissner is quoted as issuing a statement that no decision has been reached on sending boats to the scrap heap while Commissioner Thompson is quoted as attacking the proposed destruction of several hundred United States owned vessels and saying that such a course follows the desires of foreign ship owners.

Chairman O'Connor had read the Washington dispatches but refused to talk concerning them. He said any comment from him would come later in Washington.

There was no doubt that the shipping board chairman was irritated at the tenor of the Washington news and explanations will be in order when he gets back to the capital. And when he gets there Washington will learn that his primary reason in consulting with Ford was to have Ford buy shipping board boats and that any junking program was secondary at that interview.

Real Spirit Phenomena

Genuine psychic phenomena actually occur. This statement was made by J. Malcolm Bird, editor of the Scientific American, in an address before the Medill School of Journalism in Chicago. "There are real 'spirit voices', though we have no proof that they are spirits. There are genuine clairvoyants, who can see pictures of the past, present and future. There are spirit writings which display power far beyond the ability of the writer. And there are even more surprising genuine phenomena in the field of the objective or physical manifestations."

Auto Accident Case in Court

Supreme Court Action Results From Accident on Hurley Road in 1922—Parties Disagree Concerning Speed and Position of Cars.

A negligence action brought by Margaret Sears of Lake Katrine against Abraham Braveman of High Falls to recover damages for injury was taken up in the supreme court Thursday afternoon and continued today. The action grows out of an accident at the turn in the Hurley road near the entrance to Sudam Farms on May 7, 1922, when a Ford touring car of the defendant and a Ford coupe of Guernsey M. Sahler collided.

The Ford coupe was proceeding from Kingston in the direction of Hurley and the touring car was coming from High Falls to the city of Kingston.

Mr. Sahler, who was driving his car to his home in Accord, claims that in making the turn in the road the Braveman car ran to the extreme left of the road, out on the dirt shoulder and collided with his car which was almost at a stop at the time. He claims the Braveman car was traveling at a fast rate and in making the turn swung to his side of the road. Just before the accident he noticed the car and turned his own car which was traveling at about 15 miles an hour to the extreme right of the road but could not avoid the impact. After the collision, in which Miss Sears was injured about the body, arms, chest and knees, and Sahler car was sideswiped by the Braveman car and turned partly around in the road. The Braveman car, the plaintiff claims, ran on to the ditch.

Mr. Braveman claims that he was driving slowly at the time and the Sahler car was traveling fast on the left of the road, and in avoiding the Sahler car he ran his car off the road Sahler car, he claims, came over to the left of the road and crashed into the touring car.

Mr. Braveman was rendered unconscious. After the accident his car was in the ditch with the front end in the wire fence. An occupant of the Braveman car testified that Braveman car was traveling slow and came to a stop immediately after the impact.

Witnesses who were traveling in a Ford truck following the Sahler car testified that they were about 50 feet behind and saw the accident. They state that the Sahler car was to the right of the road and that the Braveman car crossed the road to the side where the Sahler car was and collided with it. One witness said the Braveman car was traveling very fast.

Mr. Wynkoop, who resides near the turn, testified for defendant that the Sahler car was going fast and the Braveman car was going slow at the time. He testified that the Sahler car was to his left of the road and struck the Braveman car head on while the Braveman car was on the grass at

Economy Appeal To Governors

President Coolidge Will Urge Reduction of Governmental Running Expenses—Believes in Pruning Plan For States.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, May 15.—President Coolidge has decided to carry directly to state governors an appeal for reduction of governmental running expenses.

This is in line with the administration's latest economy drive.

At the White House tonight the president will entertain at dinner Governors Brewster, of Maine, Trinkle of Virginia and ex-Governor Hardee of Florida. They represent the governors' conference to be held at Poland Springs, Me., June 18. The president plans to outline suggestions by which states can institute economy reforms and reduce taxes. The governors will take the president's suggestions to the conference.

The president strongly feels, it was said, that states should follow the example of the Federal government in pruning every unnecessary expense.

S. M. Lord, budget director, recently reported to the president that two-thirds of the cost of government in the United States is now being borne by the states.

The president tonight also plans to urge upon the governors the need of more harmonious and vigorous cooperation between the national government and the states in prohibition enforcement. It is Mr. Coolidge's idea that the Federal government should supervise and prosecute the big cases, leaving the states to fight the small bootleggers.

RUSSIANS MAY HAVE KILLED KITCHENER

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, May 15.—New light was shed today on the mysterious death, in 1916, of Lord Kitchener, commander-in-chief of the British army during the first two years of the war. V. W. Germain, in a book, "The Truth About Kitchener," published today, points a letter written to him by General Ludendorff, Hindenburg's chief of staff.

"Kitchener's mysterious death was the work neither of a German mine nor a German torpedo," Ludendorff was quoted as writing, "but of that power which would not permit the Russian army to recover with the help of Kitchener because the destruction of Czarist Russia had been determined."

Germain said Ludendorff undoubtedly meant that Russian revolutionists plotted Kitchener's death.

REGATTA SATURDAY ON HOUSATONIC RIVER.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Derby, Conn., May 15.—Cornell and Princeton crews, trainers and assistants swung into work on the Housatonic river this morning to put on final touches for the triangular regatta with Yale to be rowed tomorrow afternoon. Princeton forces totalled 46 persons while Cornell had 39 here.

A sign of the coming regatta that was apparent before noon today was the presence of numerous alumni of both Cornell and Princeton who were busy visiting the two crew camps which were established for a short stay.

Lutheran Synod Women Officers

Ninth Biennial Convention of Women's Missionary Society of the Lutheran Synod of New York and New England Held All Day Session Here.

At the afternoon session of the ninth biennial convention of the Women's Missionary Society of the Evangelical Lutheran Synod of New York and New England, held in the Church of the Redeemer on Wurts street all day Thursday, the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. C. G. Pfeiffer, Dunkirk; vice presidents, Mrs. L. J. Knell of Buffalo and Mrs. G. W. Preuss of Woodhaven; recording secretary, Mrs. J. W. Smith, Rochester; statistical secretary, Miss Elizabeth Stuhlmiller, Buffalo; treasurer, Mrs. R. B. Fenner, Rockville Center; historian, Mrs. S. G. Hurst, Buffalo. Mrs. William J. Nelson, wife of the pastor of the entertaining church, was elected secretary of the home mission and church extension committee.

It was voted to hold the next convention in Buffalo in 1927.

At the morning session the treasurer reported that during the past two years the women had raised the sum of $179,000 for all purposes. The convention voted to rebuild the school for girls in Japan that had been destroyed, at a cost of $25,000.

The convention proved one of the most successful held in some time. Lunch and supper were served the delegates by the Ladies' Aid Society in the church dining room and fine menus had been prepared for both meals.

Fate's Cruel Thrust

An English inventor, eighty-three years old, received a sad blow in the hour of his triumph. For over twenty years, the inventor, a resident of Slough, has been struggling patiently to realize his great ambition to improve the tone of the piano. And all through those years his wife shared his enthusiasm. At last he triumphed. He found the secret, with the aid of which a prominent piano manufacturing company believe they can produce an instrument that will revolutionize piano manufacture in that country, and put the English piano in the forefront of the world's markets. But just when he had succeeded, his devoted wife died, and the old man is now prostrated. "I've done my work, my wife is dead, and I have nothing to live for now," is all he can say.

May Conscript Police

The Iceland government has drawn up a project for introducing conscription for the police service. All men between twenty and fifty years would be liable for service.

The reason for this project is an incident which happened a few years ago in Reykjavik. A Russian Bolshevik received an order for deportation and his colleagues in Iceland violently and effectively opposed the police, when the order was to be carried out. At last a voluntary citizen army was formed, which was forced to fight a regular battle in front of the house where the Russian lived. It was then discovered that the police were not sufficient and therefore help is being sought in regular conscription for police service.

Oyster Rich in Pearls

An oyster which proved to be a solid mass of pearls has been labelled as the most remarkable find in the Florida pearl fisheries. The gems contained within the shell ranged in size from a pin head to a cow pea. In color the pearls were black, brown, cream and snow-white, and were embedded clear through the body of the oyster, with a thin filmy skin covering them, through which they could plainly be seen on both sides of the oyster, which was a nice-sized one, and contained, perhaps, 500 pearls. Only the great muscle, gills and mantle of the oyster were free from pearls.

STRANGE FISH FOUND IN ROSTOCT CREEK RECENTLY

A fish strange to the waters of the Hudson river, was found floating in the old Sh. Lloyd's slip the other morning, and was tied to the dock with rope to prevent it floating away. It had been dead for several weeks. The fish was said to be a shark, though a dolphin, a third a scorpion, and a fourth a sturgeon. Later the strange fish was taken away in a Ford truck by a man who intended using the carcass for fertilizer on his fields. It weighed about 200 pounds and had a long mouth with teeth and a flat tail. It was grayish in color. Because of the place where it was found, there is a story that the strange fish, like the ancient Skilling, was originally part of Noah's famous fleet and menagerie.

Walker-Cooper Fight for Title

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

San Francisco, May 15.—If the King of the Sea should rise from the green waters of San Francisco Bay today to comb shells from his salty beard, while sitting atop historic Golden Gate, he would be convinced time had turned backward in its flight.

For not since the days of Abe Attell, Jim Corbett and Tom Sharkey has this city seen such feverish activity along Market street, the Rue Powell and other ways and lanes, where things static are considered worth while.

And where hundreds milled in the old days, thousands were preparing today to turn out tomorrow when Mickey Walker, world's champion welterweight, defends his crown in Ewing Field, against Lefty Cooper, "local plide."

Cooper Popular.

It is California's first title match since the new long bout law went into effect six months ago and every San Franciscan with the slightest tinge of sporting blood is going to sit in at the fray.

Although only an adopted son, Cooper is as much loved as Jack London.

Here Cooper has fought himself from obscurity to stardom.

Fight fans have watched him slug his way from the preliminary classes to a title match, and each fan considers he personally contributed his bit to giving the local favorite his "big chance."

Record Crowd.

His friends are filled with the hope on the eve of the battle Cooper will not only stay the ten rounds with Walker, but that his great fighting heart and his lusty punch will return him champion of all he surveys and California's first ring king since almost a quarter of a century ago when San Francisco boasted as many cauliflower cut chiefs as New York.

In meeting Cooper, Walker is making his second invasion of the Far West. Recently in Los Angeles the welter ruler slugged to sleep in seven simple rounds Bert Collins, Mexican fighter, widely heralded as middleweight champion of the Pacific Coast.

Plans have been made to handle a crowd of more than 20,000 persons at the fight.

ORIOLES WON FROM THE HUTTON JUNIORS

The North Rondout Orioles defeated the fast stepping Hutton Juniors at Hutton Oval by the score of 13-4. The lineup for the Orioles was: Raszkoski, c.; Nitka, p.; Morgan, 1b.; Komasa, 2b.; Lewis, 3b.; Booboltz, ss.; Fisher, rt.; Darwak, cf.; Demski, lf. The battery for the losers was: Turk, p. and Koltz catching. The Orioles would like to hear from teams from the ages of 12-15. Phone 360-M.

Seals Have Organized. The Seals of Hasbrouck avenue, have organized for the season with a good lineup and are booking games. The Seals would like to hear from the following teams: Blue Sox, A. & H. Generals, Cardinals, Terry's and Port Ewen Rangers. Call 2763-M, between 5 and 6.

One-Armed Veteran Is Sensation With Cue

One of the sensational features of the present billiard season in England was the recent run of 214 made by Arthur Groundrill, a one armed player and referee.

He had struggled for years to make 200 in public play, and while he had attained these figures in practice, this was the first time he achieved the feat before a crowd.

Groundrill, as a sergeant of cavalry, very nearly won the army championship, a break of 50 then being considered good for him. At Ypres he lost his left hand and part of his forearm, oddly enough, on his birthday.

English Tennis Star

Nurul, we understand, never was a messenger boy.

During the boxing career of Benny Leonard, consisting of 200 fights, he scored 64 knockouts.
